WAKE-UP CALL ON WEARING SEAT BELTS IN REAR SEATS

Although rear passengers must mandatorily wear seat belts as per the rule book, most people callously avoid doing so

MISTRY HADN'T STRAPPED HIMSELF, SAY POLICE

The Mercedes-Benz GLC on which Cyrus Mistry was travelling had seven airbags, including curtain airbags on the sides, but none for the rear seats. Mistry and Jahangir on the rear seats weren't strapped, the police said. The impact threw them forward at great velocity, leading to fatal head injuries. Had they put on the seat belts, they could have possibly survived

SUNDAY HORROR MAROONS B'LURU

Techies to work from home; Schools to hold online classes

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru

STATE capital Bengaluru witnessed unprecedented flooding in some areas, which many referred to as 'Sunday horror'. The flooding in areas between east and south-east Bengaluru stranded people, locked them in traffic gridlocks, flooded houses and localities and many had to suffer vehicle breakdowns or getting marooned at home. The excruciating miseries which began on Sunday night, extended till Monday morning, forcing many tech companies to ask their employees to return to the work-from-home mode.

According to the India Meteorological Department (IMD), the city recorded 131.6mm rainfall in the city centre, while, as per the Karnataka State Natural Disaster Management Centre (KSNDMC), the areas which got flooded in south and south-east Bengaluru received not more than 65.5 mm rainfall. And yet, over 25 locations in these areas experienced severe inundation, forcing traffic to a grinding halt on Sunday night and Monday morning as cars and autos got submerged under roof-high water, while several two-wheeler riders were subjected to the painful experience of pushing their vehicles in waist-deep water, not knowing whether their next step would be in an open manhole.

Snail-paced traffic movement was reported on most parts of the Outer Ring Road, especially in areas leading to Sarjapur, Bellandur, Whitefield, Marathahalli, Yemlur, Borewell Road and surrounding areas. P2

Flood casts its shadow on GIM '22

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

THE heavy rain and flooding in Bengaluru for the past few weeks has cast its shadow on the state government's ambitious three-day Global Investors Meet scheduled to be held from November 2, 2022. This couldn't have happened at a worse time for the Basavaraj Bommai-led BJP government in an election year. It is happening at a time when Industry Minister Murugesh Nirani is conducting roadshows in the US, ahead of the GIM.

With Assembly polls round the corner, there are reports of reluctance from investors due to poor infrastructure. Even government officials are now sceptical of attracting a good number of investors as the infrastructure woes are making headlines globally. The GIM-2022 is being held after a gap of six years. The then Congress government had hosted GIM in 2016, and got 1,201 projects approved and Memorandums of Understanding worth Rs 3.08 lakh crore signed. P4

Good for India as Truss wins race to be next UK PM

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

UK foreign secretary Liz Truss (47) on Monday formally won the Conservative Party leadership contest, earning the right to become the nation's third woman prime minister. The only element of surprise was the margin by which she defeated her Indian-origin rival Rishi Sunak — 20,927 votes — which was closer than thought.

"I am honoured to be elected leader of the Conservative Party. Thank you for putting your trust in me to lead and deliver for our great country. I will take bold action to get all of us through these tough times, grow our economy and unleash the UK's potential," Truss said after the poll results were announced. The Queen will formally appoint her PM on Tuesday.

Back home in India, she is being viewed as a British politician known for championing stronger India-UK trade and strategic ties. "I see the UK and India in a sweet spot of trade dynamics," said Truss in May last year when the India-UK Enhanced Trade Partnership was signed. This led to the initiation of the India-UK Free Trade Agreement (FTA).

"Liz Truss will be good for India. As trade secretary she has been involved with India and has been at the centre of trade partnerships, which will culminate into the finalisation of the FTA. Besides, as trade secretary she has come to India thrice in the past two years," said sources.

As trade secretary, Truss got to know commerce minister Piyush Goyal and External Affairs Minister Dr S Jaishankar. This will help in furthering trade and diplomatic ties between India and the UK.

"She was instrumental in setting the Diwali deadline for the FTA and we are optimistic that the subsequent rounds would be on track. Five rounds are already over," sources added.

Commerce Secretary B V R Subrahmanyam recently said that 19 out of the 26 chapters of the FTA talks are closed and negotiations are underway in a few areas. The Diwali deadline is not going to be missed.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi, in his greetings, said: "Congratulations Liz Truss for being chosen to be the next PM of the UK. Confident that under your leadership, the India-UK Comprehensive Strategic Partnership will be further strengthened." P12

LINGAYAT SEER OF NEGINHAL MUTT COMMITS SUICIDE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Belagavi

A prominent Lingayat seer, Basava Siddalinga Swamiji from Madiwaleshwar Mutt at Neginhal near Belagavi, died reportedly by suicide, leaving a note behind on Monday. Sources said he was upset over a recent viral audio clip in which two women had accused several Lingayat seers, including him, of harassing women in the mutts.

The incident comes in the backdrop of a POCSO case registered against Murugha Mutt pontiff Dr Shivamurthy Murugha Sharanaru and his subsequent arrest by the police.

Basava Siddalinga Swami reportedly hanged himself on Monday, hours after he confided to the devotees of the mutt at a meeting late on Sunday that he was extremely upset with the developments (release of audio) and that he was dejected. In the death note recovered from the spot where his body was found, he said he had not committed any mistake and that he himself was responsible for his own death. He requested the police not to take anyone in custody while probing the reason behind his death.

SC questions right to carry hijab to schools

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

A person has a right to practise religion but the question is whether it can be taken to a school which has a prescribed uniform, the Supreme Court observed on Monday while hearing the Karnataka Hijab ban row.

Hearing arguments on a batch of pleas challenging the Karnataka High Court verdict refusing to lift the ban on hijab in educational institutions of the state, the apex court asked whether a student can wear hijab to a school where uniform has been prescribed.

"You may have a religious right to practise whatever you want to practise. But can you practise and take that right to a school which has uniform as a part of dress you have to wear? That will be the question," said a bench of Justices Hemant Gupta and Sudhanshu Dhulia. The apex court posed the question to senior advocate Sanjay Hegde, who was arguing for some of the petitioners. CONTINUED ON: P9

Baby jumbo a new plaything for tribal kids

The calf was found playing and being fed by children and adults | EXPRESS

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

IN the backdrop of increasing man-animal conflicts in recent times, here's a heartwarming story of a six-month-old male elephant calf befriending tribal schoolchildren and teachers at Puranipodu village in Chamarajanagar near B R Hills.

According to forest department officials, the calf might have got separated from its mother and strayed into human habitation. They say a wild animal becoming friends with human beings and seeking care and attention is not a usual sight either.

"We got to know of the incident on Sunday. The calf was found wandering in the school area in Yelandur taluk in the village, which is a tribal enclosure. It was found playing and being fed by children and adults," said in-charge Deputy Conservator of Forests, B R Hills, Santhosh Kumar.

The calf was being fed bananas and other food items. "Although elephant calves are very joyful and delightful, such close proximity is rare," said a forest official from Chamarajanagar. The calf has been taken by foresters who are trying to reunite it with its mother.

ALL BLOCKS WILL BE CLEARED IN 2 MONTHS, PROMISES BBMP CHIEF

East, Mahadevapura, Bommanahalli zones worst hit; Palike yet to take action against officials responsible

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@BENGALURU

THE Bengaluru Bruhat Mahanagara Palike has identified over 500 encroachments and will clear all of them in the next two months, BBMP Commissioner Tushar Girinath said here on Monday.

Briefing the press about the record rainfall and floods, he said heavy rain through Sunday night and the overflowing Savalkere Lake impacted Mahadevapura's ORR, Sarjapur, Yamalur, Marathahalli and Borewell Road. The areas were flooded and traffic was gridlocked.

Girinath said at least 28 areas of Mahadevapura, 24 areas of East, and nine areas of Bommanahalli zones were flooded due to rain. The Palike took up a storm water drain encroachment clearance at 40-odd places, especially in Mahadevapura zone, but the copious rain and a swelling Bellandur Lake resulted in the deluge.

Asked why BBMP failed to take action against officials for the mess, he said the Urban Development Department is yet to give directions.

Recently, CM Basavaraj Bommai had held officials responsible for the monsoon mess, and warned that an inquiry would be taken up against officials who cleared licences and NOCs for buildings on drains, lakes and in buffer zones.

Girinath informed that after estimation of losses, the Palike will give ₹10,000 to those affected. At present, the focus is on relocation of the public and also providing nutrition.

BBMP is working on a 300m pipeline, and will soon complete the remaining work on 47m at RMZ-EcoSpace area, to fix flooding on ORR Road. On Yamalur Road, once water recedes, low-lying areas of HAL that were flooded due to an overflowing Vibhutipura Lake, will have some respite. Similarly, drains will be cleared to divert water, and ensure that HSR Layout in Bommanahalli does not flood. As a few builders have encroached drains, he said notices will not be issued, instead, the encroachments will be cleared, based on the Revenue department's map.

Residents and commuters of Rainbow Drive Layout, Outer Ring Road, Bellandur, Nallurhalli, Whitefield, Varthur-Annasandra Palya in Mahadevapura Zone, Lal Masjid, Chandni Chowk, OPH Road, Vasanth Nagar, Ramaswamy Palya, HBR Layout and Murphy Town in East Zone, and HSR Layout Sectors 3, 4, 5 and 6, Mangamanapalaya, Bilekahalli, Devarachikkanahalli Arekere in Bommanahalli Zone bore the brunt of flooding. Locals complained that water levels did not recede until 2pm Monday due to overflowing Bellandur and Vibhutipura lakes. Assessing the pathetic ground situation and poor infrastructure, companies in EcoSpace, RMZ and Manyata Tech Park closed and asked staffers to work from home.

In Munnekolala, 150 sheds of BBMP pourakarmikas were inundated, leaving them shelterless. "There are women and children, many are starving. Their sheds have 3ft of water, groceries and documents were washed away. The administration should reach out and relocate them," said KP Appanna, a trade union leader. Shameer, manager at Aishwarya Supermarket at Rainbow Drive Layout, said the supermarket was flooded again, spoiling fridges and foodstuff. In Annasandra Palya in HAL ward, 50 homes, a masjid and school were flooded after Vibhuthipura Lake breached. SLP Public School declared a holiday as did schools in the vicinity of Bellandur Lake. "I rushed to the spot at 1am and saw 3ft of water inside Rizwan Masjid and SLP Public School. Apartments have encroached drains connecting Vibhutipura Lake. Many residents have been starving since last night," said Syed Rahim, a social worker.

Shakeel Usmani, a resident of Lal Masjid Street in Shivajinagar, held the local MLA responsible for the mess, after residents struggled to carry a body through the flooded streets. "The area has Smart City roads, but only for namesake. If effective monitoring was done during work execution, the areas would not have flooded," he said.

Akshaya Patra Foundation has reached out to people in flood-hit areas to supply packaged food. "There was a request from Divyashree, Disha and Rainbow Drive Apartments for groceries, milk, bread and medicines, which were delivered by volunteers. BBMP deployed boats to rescue people in the morning," said Jagadish Reddy, a social worker.

Conductor, bus driver awarded for bravery

Bengaluru : Managing Director of the Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC) V Anbu Kumar on Monday felicitated the driver and conductor of a bus for saving the lives of passengers after the vehicle was submerged on a flooded road in Uragahalli near Ramanagara. The locals were also alerted who helped the staffers to rescue an old woman. On August 29, the bus was stuck on a flooded road near the railway bridge. The driver Lingaraju and conductor Venkatesh had managed to save all the passengers, although they did not know how to swim, but used a ladder to rescue them. They said that their mobile phones went into the water, cutting them off from KSRTC officials. The KSRTC chief awarded the duo for their bravery in his chamber along with an appreciation letter.

Brace for dry taps, pumphouses sink in TK Halli

Bengaluru: Many areas in Bengaluru will face water scarcity for the next two days as two pumping stations were submerged after heavy rain, in TK Halli in Mandya district. The pumping machines at third and fourth units of Cauvery catchment area were submerged after the river Bheemeshwara and tank overflowed. Inspecting the pumphouses on Monday, CM Basavaraj Bommai said the rainwater had damaged two of the five BWSSB pumphouses. The river had received so much water after 75 years, he said. One 550MLD capacity pumphouse has started functioning and is supplying water to Bengaluru, while repairs have also started. Already, 12ft of water has been drained out from Stage 4 pumphouse and the remaining 11ft is expected to be completed by midnight or Tuesday morning. Bommai said the pumphouse will start functioning after a dry run of the machinery. As a permanent measure to check waterlogging, a concrete wall will be constructed around the pumphouse. Higher Education Minister Dr CN Ashwath Narayan, Revenue Minister R Ashoka, Urban Development Minister Byrati Basavaraj and others accompanied Bommai. The BWSSB announced that there will be no water supply across Bengaluru in the next two days.

It's back to 'study from home'

Bengaluru: With unrelenting rain lashing the city over the past few days, more schools are considering switching to online classes, in the interest of teachers and students. Many areas were flooded and commute was taking longer than usual, forcing some branches of Orchid International School to switch to online classes on Monday, especially due to the deluge in Bellandur and Sarjapur areas. "Today, there was heavy waterlogging at Bellandur and Sarjapur Road in the morning due to heavy rainfall the previous night. These are the main routes that connect to our school. Many teachers also reported difficulty in commuting," said Dr Rajni Bakshi, principal of the Sarjapur branch of the school. Meanwhile, some schools are still considering taking up online classes. "The school, which is in the vicinity of one of the worst-hit parts of the city, was open, especially due to Teacher's Day celebrations. The commute to school was a big challenge. Many buses couldn't make it to school on time, and students were sent home early. Teachers' Day celebrations were also curtailed," said Niru Agarwal, trustee of Greenwood High International School.

Students, teachers rush to save flooded school

Bengaluru : The rain monster seems to have hit education as well. A Government Higher Primary School in Vajrahalli, near Nelamangala, was inundated, forcing school authorities to announce a two-day holiday on Monday. Water gushed into seven classrooms, destroying furniture, study material and documents. Headmaster Soubhagya M said torrential rain late at night damaged the compound wall and left the premises flooded. Local leaders, villagers and panchayat members have assured that new material will be provided. When students and teachers saw the plight of the school on television, they rushed to help drain out the water and also shift study materials to three classrooms which were unaffected. Town Panchayat member Kemparaju said encroachment of the rajakaluve had led to waterlogging on the school premises, for which strict action should be taken.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

06TH September: Virgo is my sign of the moment. In fact, it's one of my favourite signs. This doesn't mean that I get on with all Virgoans - although I do try to! What it does mean, though, is that people born with this sign strongly placed are some of the most important individuals on the planet. Their capacity for cool, clear thinking often gets us out of tight corners!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
There is little change in your stellar formations for the day, beyond a sense of inspiration. Neither can you expect your planetary patterns to differ over the coming few days. I'd therefore strongly advise you to achieve a measure of consistency in everything that you do.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
If you're thinking of going behind someone's back, or arranging secret meetings, be very careful and be sure to take a high moral stand. The point is that with the world in its present unpredictable phase you need to work out what's best for you. Only take a risk if you're prepared for the consequences.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Much that is hidden is about to be revealed. My word of caution to you for the week is not to get involved in murky matters such as rumours, conspiracies, plots and counter-plots. This sort of activity is the only thing which could mar your reputation. So, always do your best.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
You may live for your passion. By this I mean that you must let nothing stand in the way of achieving your dearest wish. For the next twelve weeks, nobody must be allowed to restrict your freedom or deny you the many opportunities you so richly deserve.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
The combin-ation of lunar emotion with Leonine intensity is sure to prove a very potent one over the next few days. Professional Leos may discover that certain essential considerations may have been overlooked. Those of you with family business to conduct should take a common-sense approach.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
If you're travelling this week - or making travel plans - then please leave nothing to chance. Fate has a way of springing surprises on the unwary, which means that you must be prepared for any eventuality - even when what you discover is to your advantage.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
For the next three days you will be moving into the depths of a financial whirlwind. Some of you will experience nothing but minor irritations, but those planning major deals should seek expert advice. In matters of the heart, it's family feelings which take first place.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
The Moon creeps into an influential region of your chart, adding to your already considerable Scorpionic emotional power and determination. When your position is so powerful, care and subtlety are essential, as is a willingness to handle all the financial details.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
The Moon aligns with the area of your chart that powerfully aspects your deepest desires. You may therefore be susceptible to strange, surreal dreams. We astrologers believe that all dreams reveal a personal message, so take note! There could even be some financial gain.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
The Sun and Moon are pulling you in different directions. I doubt if your life will be rendered any less complex by these massive celestial movements, but at least others will soon be smiling on your efforts. A younger relation could be in need of your very best emotional support.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
It's quite natural that your costs should be rising. This is all due to macho Mars' impact on your social aspirations and long-term hopes and wishes. Yet, if you have a choice, you should splash out on ideas, activities and objects which will make your life more colourful.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
The next three days could be special ones for all Pisceans involved in higher education, long-distance travel or spiritual pursuits. You see, it's time to broaden your horizons in all ways possible. In love, you could be a little reserved, reluctant to show your true feelings.

CET row: Govt to submit review petition or appeal

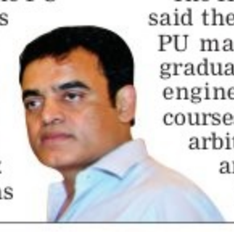
Higher Education Minister convenes meeting with legal experts, edu dept officials to discuss issue

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

HIGHER Education Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayan on Monday said the government is planning to submit a review petition or an appeal, challenging the recent High Court order regarding the CET repeaters' petition.

Following the High Court order on Saturday, which quashed the Karnataka Examination Authority (KEA) note, stating that the 2021-22 qualifying examination marks would not be considered in the ranking of CET repeaters in 2022-23, Narayan said a decision will be taken on what to do next. He convened a meeting with legal experts and higher education officials on Monday, where he said they will decide whether to submit a review petition or appeal before the single-judge bench which passed the order.

"Those who approached court have adhered to a technical point. Instead, they should have understood that last year, the decision was taken in view of the pandemic. If the earlier order of the High Court is implemented, it will hamper 1.5 lakh students. If the PU marks of last year's students is taken into consideration, the ranking secured by students of this year will go down significantly. Since examinations were not held last year due to the pandemic, all students were passed based on their SSLC and PU I marks. This resulted in more students securing over 90-95 per cent marks," he said.



The High Court on Saturday said the decision to consider PU marks for other undergraduate courses, but not for engineering and technical courses, was discriminatory, arbitrary as well as unfair and unreasonable to the candidates. The High Court also said the KEA's failure to inform repeaters of the decision beforehand had also prevented them from the opportunity to retake their qualifying examination.

"We don't have any sort of dissatisfaction towards students of the last year. We want to resolve the situation in a fair manner within the time limit. Steps will be taken to complete the counselling process before September 30," the minister said.

Get 75 eye donation pledge cards, PHCs told

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

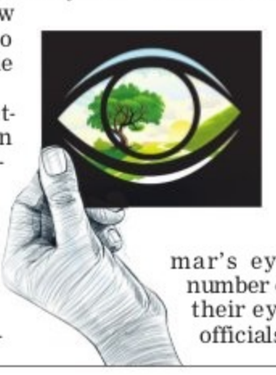
WHILE pledges for eye donation are picking up by the day, each public healthcare centre in the state has been given a target to get pledge cards to donate eyes from 75 people, on the occasion of 'Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav', and the 37th eye donation fortnight held between August 25 and September 8. As many as 7,163 people have pledged to donate their eyes from August 25 this year.

Minister of Health and Family Welfare Dr K Sudhakar launched a walkathon hosted by the health department to create awareness for eye donation on Monday. The families of a few donors were also felicitated on the occasion.

Prof Rohit Shetty, Vice Chairman of Narayana Nethralaya, said that with advanced technology, and with each eyeball being donated, two layers of cornea can be transplanted for two blind people, with cornea-related problems. The sclera (white) part of each eyeball can be transplanted for one person with an eyeball problem. Hence, a person donating a pair of eyeballs can gift vision to four people, he said.

According to Dr Shakila N, Joint Director, Ophthalmology, State Health Department, as many as 12,058 people have pledged to donate their eyes and 2,674 eyeballs have been donated to eye banks from April 2022 to July 2022. Last year, 5,804 eyeballs were donated and 9,413 people pledged to donate eyes from April 2021 to March 2022.

In 2020-21, only 1,806 eyeballs were donated and 76 people had pledged to donate eyes. The number of eyeballs collected and pledges were lesser that year due to the pandemic. Inspired by late actor Puneeth Rajkumar's eye donation, the number of people pledging their eyes has increased, officials said.



NO INFIRMITY IN APPOINTING BDA CHAIRMAN: HIGH COURT

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

OBSERVING that the appointments of chairman and members of the Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) do not suffer from any infirmity, the Karnataka High Court on Monday directed the state government to frame guidelines for appointments to the post of engineer or finance or town planner members of the BDA.

A division bench of Acting Chief Justice Alok Aradhe and Justice S Vishwajith Shetty issued the direction, disposing of two petitions filed by advocate AS Harish challenging the appointment of MLA SR Vishwanath as BDA chairman and others to the posts of engineer, finance and town planner members of the Authority.

In one of the two petitions, the petitioner prayed to the court to disqualify MLA SR Vishwanath from holding the post of chairman which is an office of profit. In another petition, it was contended that no method of appointment was evolved to the posts of engineer, finance and town planner members.

No prohibition

The court said the BDA Act does not contain any prohibition that a chairman of the Authority cannot have any other avocation. However, the BDA (Cadre and Recruitment and Conditions of Service) (Amendment) Regulations, 2004 provide for appointment of engineer, finance and town planner members. The said Rules are, however, silent on the manner of appointment, the court said, issuing directions to frame guidelines for appointments.

The court said the persons who are eligible and have the requisite qualification be appointed for the posts of Engineer or Finance or and Town Planner Members.

HC to BBMP: Submit report on afforestation

The Karnataka High Court on Monday directed the BBMP to submit reports on the status of saplings planted as part of compensatory afforestation for the trees axed for metro project, and health of the trees which were translocated by BMRCL. A division bench of Acting Chief Justice Alok Aradhe and Justice S Vishwajith Shetty directed BBMP's Tree Officer to visit the sites of afforestation and translocation of trees which were carried out by the BMRCL based on the recommendations of Technical Expert Committee and submit a report. The court was hearing a PIL filed by Dattatraya T Devare and others in 2018, seeking directions to implement the provisions of the Karnataka Preservation of Trees Act, 1976. The directions were issued by the court after the petitioners' counsel disputed BMRCL's contention which claimed that it has complied with court's order.

Man looking for Gulf job ends up losing ₹6.67L

PRAVEEN KUMAR @ Bengaluru

A 49-year-old man who was looking for a job in the Middle East has been conned by online fraudsters, to whom he lost Rs 6.67 lakh. The accused, claiming to be an HR representative for a firm operating in the Gulf Cooperation Council countries, had posted fake job advertisements on social media. In order to deceive gullible job aspirants, the accused had suffixed their email ID with 'gulfnaukri'. Believing it to be a genuine job ad, the victim, a resident of Sarjapur Road, approached them and lost his money. He has filed a complaint with the CEN police.

The victim has been identified as Clement R John, who has filed a complaint against Amit Singh and Kuldeep Sinha. The suspects assured him of good salary with accommodation facilities. They even assured that the VISA expenses would be taken care of by the company. Then they asked him to pay the registration cost and other fees. In a phase manner, John ended up paying Rs 6.67 lakh. When there was a delay in the job offer, the suspects told him that the project had been postponed. When he demanded the refund, the suspects went incommunicado.

"The accused had used two mobile phone numbers to deceive the victim. Both the phone numbers are switched off now. It appears that the accused are part of a bigger racket. One should be careful of such job portals as the accused clone original platforms. No employers ask for money in advance in the form of processing or any other kind of fees. If the suspect asks for money to be transferred to their personal accounts, people should become alert," said an officer.

Free power to SC/STs: Oppn slams govt over withdrawal of circular

Siddaramaiah questions double-engine govts for allegedly betraying oppressed classes

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Basavaraj Bommai-led BJP government's alleged U-turn over the provision of 75 units of free electricity a month to BPL families from the SC/ST communities, which he had announced as part of the 75th Independence Day celebrations, has been slammed by the Opposition.

Though the energy department clarified that the circular issued on August 24 has been withdrawn in order to simplify the guidelines to identify beneficiaries, Leader of Opposition in the Assembly Siddaramaiah alleged that the government has betrayed Dalits.

"The double-engine governments, which were in favour of privatising the power sector, have betrayed even the farmer community by reducing the supply of free electricity and fixing meter-readers to irrigation pump-sets," he alleged.

He said that the free supply of power should continue for both BPL Dalit families, as well as for farmers. The former chief minister, who held the finance portfolio, also suggested the government to check for leakages in the power supply and take steps to tackle corruption, and also collect the massive dues from private companies for the energy department.

"Other than long speeches, the BJP government is not ready to do anything for the oppressed communities. Why did the BJP government withdraw the programme in just a week? Because of the Keshavakripa order? Or the command of Nagpur?" tweeted former minister Priyank Kharge, indirectly attacking the RSS. Reacting sharply, however, Energy Minister V Sunil Kumar clarified that the programme was not withdrawn per se, but the circular about the guidelines has been withdrawn.

"Dear@PriyankKharge, sorry for your ignorance and half-baked information collection. You are shouting as if the scheme itself will be cancelled. The old circular is withdrawn to simplify the criteria for selection of beneficiaries," Sunil replied through a tweet.

It may be noted here that Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, during her recent visit to Bengaluru, had reportedly advised the government not to make announcements such as free electricity to farmers, unless there was an allocation in the Budget.

CLP leader Siddaramaiah, local MLAs and Congress workers hold a meeting in Mysuru on Monday | EXPRESS

Ensure 25K workers daily in Bharat Jodo Yatra: Siddu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mysuru

AHEAD of Congress leader Rahul Gandhi's ambitious Bharat Jodo Yatra, which will commence its Karnataka journey from Gundlupet in Chamarajanagar district on September 30, Leader of Opposition Siddaramaiah and local MLAs held a meeting with Congress workers in the region here on Monday.

The meeting, chaired by Siddaramaiah, was organised by the Mysuru District Congress Committee and was attended by MLAs Tanveer Sait, Manjunath, Dr Yathindra Siddaramaiah, Puttaranga Shetty, Anil Chikkamadu, Narendra, MLCs Thimmayya, Madhu Madegowda and others. Siddaramaiah told the leaders that the yatra, which will be led by Rahul Gandhi, should have at least 25,000 party workers every day.

He said the 3,500 km yatra from Kashmir to Kanyakumari will enter Gundlupet on September 30 after passing through Kerala.

"Every day, it will cover 25 km and will highlight issues pertaining to farmers, youngsters and the downtrodden," he said.

During yatra's four-day passage of Chamarajanagar and Mysuru districts, it will pass through Bendagahalli, Begur, Kalale Gate, Thandavapura, Badanavalu, Nanjangud temple, Mysuru city exhibition grounds, Srirangapatna temple and Pandavapura. Party workers have carefully planned the padayatra route and it will begin its Karnataka journey from Badanavalu village, which was visited by Mahatma Gandhi, on October 2. The yatra will extend support to the Dhwaja Satyagraha and Khadi movement announced by weavers against the new flag code.

FORMER Congress spokesman and Supreme Court advocate Brijesh Kalappa, who quit Congress a couple of months ago, has formally joined Aam Aadmi Party in the presence of state president Prithvi Reddy and state in-charge Dilip Pandey.

Brijesh alleged that nepotism dogs Congress. "I was in Congress for around 25 years and realised that to be an MLA in that party, you have to be someone's son or daughter or family member or you need money. I aspired to contest in 2018, but did not manage to get a ticket even in 2023."

Brijesh, who has served as legal advisor to the chief minister, additional advocate general in Haryana and advocate in the river dispute legal teams of Karnataka, said, "Talent counts for nothing in Congress. Even if I worked in that party for 50 years, I would remain a mere worker."

Brijesh said he joined AAP as it suited his profile, even though there was an offer from the ruling BJP. Brijesh, who met Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal, said, "Kejriwal has insight into the voter's minds and like Mahatma Gandhi can pick up the right issues."

HDK MEETS NITISH, LOOKS AT REVIVING JANATA PARIVAR

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Bengaluru

SENIOR JDS leader HD Kumaraswamy held a detailed discussion with Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar on the prevailing political scenario in the country at former Prime Minister HD Deve Gowda's residence in New Delhi on Monday evening.

"People wish that the Janata Parivar, which took shape following Jayaprakash Narayan's movement and later broke into factions, get united again in the interest of the country. That was why I initiated this move," Kumaraswamy said after the meeting.

JDS state president CM Ibrahim, who too was present at the meeting, said the interaction was crucial following the recent political developments in Bihar. "It's good for the country's politics and democracy," he added.

He said Nitish praised Kumaraswamy's style of functioning and delivering goods to the people and farmers when he was the chief minister. "Nitish was also impressed with the Janatha Jaladhare programme that has been launched by JDS in the runup to the 2023 Assembly polls," he added.

As JDU Karnataka president Mahima Patel too was present, there was speculation that JDS and JDU could share some seats in the 2023 Assembly polls. As JDS is focusing on only 123 of the 224 Assembly seats, it could extend support to JDU in some constituencies of North Karnataka, sources said.

For Nitish, who is said to be nursing the ambition of becoming Prime Minister, meeting anti-BJP forces including the regional parties especially down South is crucial, political pundits said.

Kumaraswamy's meeting with Nitish may also help JDS scrub the allegations of the party being dubbed the B team of BJP and safeguard its credential as a secular party.

With Deve Gowda not keeping well for sometime due to age-related ailments, the meeting also gave an indication of Kumaraswamy stepping into the shoes of his father in attending to political affairs at the national level.

Groundwater level in 71 taluks up due to rain, says Madhu Swamy

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mysuru

REFERRING to the widespread rain across the state, Minor Irrigation Minister J C Madhu Swamy said that over 71 taluks in Karnataka, with low groundwater levels, have seen a good rise in the same.

Speaking to reporters here on Monday, the minister said that damage due to rain is common, but the widespread rain across the state reportedly has contributed to an increase in the groundwater table in over 71 taluks.

"Around 60-70 per cent of tanks and lakes are full to the brim, across the state, which has helped maintain the groundwater level. For the next 2-3 years, farmers will be happy to see good harvest with no dearth of water," the minister felt.

Meanwhile, he criticised the obstruction of waterways in urban areas, which led to much havoc due to the rain, inconveniencing citizens.

"Obstructing waterways results in major localities getting submerged. I have widely travelled across the state gathering all details and have instructed the release of needed funds in case of damage," he said. Commenting on the Bengaluru-Mysuru expressway getting inundated near Ramanagara, disrupting traffic, Madhu Swamy claimed that the highway authority, which is supervising the project of constructing a bypass, has not taken into consideration several key points, which caused this situation.

"I have instructed to rectify this issue and also rehabilitate over 50 families from low-lying areas," Madhu Swamy said.

NIRANI and his team of officials, who are in the US, have already completed roadshows in Japan and South Korea. The team will also be heading to Europe. In October, they are planning to hold domestic roadshows in Hyderabad, Delhi, Chennai, Kolkata and Mumbai to woo investors.

Speaking to TNIE, Mohandas Pai, Chairman of Manipal Global Education, said Bengaluru floods are in the news all over the world, especially on social media. This has raised fears among investors that the government is not doing enough to address the challenges posed by floods. "The state government has very little time. It's high time CM Bommai shows to the world that the issues will be sorted out in a month's time," he said.

An industrialist who did not wish to be identified reasoned, "Why should one put one's money in a place which has poor infrastructure?"

TEACHERS' DAY

Govt teachers volunteer to paint Koppal schools

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Koppal

AS a noble gesture, a 10-member group of government school teachers have volunteered to improve the state of decades-old government schools in Koppal taluk, at their own expense.

It was on Teachers' Day last year that a casual conversation between these like-minded teachers, set the ball rolling with regard to their cause to voluntarily uplift government schools that were reportedly left neglected. They decided to bear the cost of painting the school buildings, and have so far painted as many as 14 of them, including the BEO's office in Koppal.

Painting each school costs around Rs 40,000 and the teachers have been willingly paying for it on their own, said Hanumantappa Kuri, a group member and cluster resource person. "We choose a government school building and take up its painting work on a Sunday. We commence our work by 6 am and see that we finish by late evening, with all 10 members joining in," said another teacher Beerappa Andagi.

The other teachers include Kashinath Sirigeri, Sharanappa, Chandru, Suresh Kambali, Hulugappa Bhajantri, Veeresh, Guruswamy and Mallappa Gudadannavar.

So far, they have painted government primary schools in Iaakalgada Alwandi, Hitnal, Hosalli, Kavali, Chilakhamukhi, Mangalapur, Kutaganahalli, and Chamalapur villages of Koppal taluk, in addition to a government school in Kuvempu Nagar, besides the aforementioned BEO's office.

Koppal BEO Umesh Pujar said that the team has been accorded permission to push ahead with their noble cause.

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Monday said around 23,000 more government school buildings will be constructed over the next three years, besides separate toilets for boys and girls at each government school, and 4,000 Anganwadi school buildings are planned to come up in a year's time.

Speaking on the occasion of Teachers' Day, hosted by the Department of School Education and Literacy here on Monday, Bommai said the education system should prepare students to cope with the issues of current times, which is known for scientific advancement. He called upon teachers to function consciously, and strive with single-minded pursuit, to lay a strong foundation for students towards building character and their comprehensive development.

Education Minister BC Nagesh said a commission would be formed to hear grievances of teachers, and the department is preparing a list of irregular schools that are unregistered or have not renewed their registration, to ensure that the education of children is not affected. He added that the government will try to implement NEP 2020 for nursery children this year itself, after framing the state curriculum framework once the national curriculum framework is done.

"It was the dream of all freedom fighters, including Mahatma Gandhi, to change the education policy of the country, which was designed by Macaulay for the British system and is followed even today. Our aim is to only introduce the real facts about Indian history and freedom struggle so that students emerge with patriotism," the Chief Minister said.

IDOL IMMERSION ORDER TRIGGERS ROW

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hyderabad

TAKING a tough stance against the State government's decision on Ganeshidol immersion, the Bhagyanagar Ganesh Utsav Samithi (BGUS) members on Monday said announced their resolve to conduct the annual ritual at the Hussainsagar on September 9.

"If the State government creates any hurdles, the idols will not be moved from Ganesh mandapams. If any untoward incidents occur, the State government will be held responsible," said Bhagwanth Rao, General Secretary of BGUS.

Speaking to the media here, he came down heavily on Chief Minister K Chandrashekar Rao for not showing interest in making arrangements for immersion of Ganesh idols even though the all important day is nearing. "As per the latest information, the government is to yet complete the arrangements. If they are not completed in time, it could lead to chaos in the city. If the government is not in a position to make the arrangements, leave it to BGUS. We will make all the arrangements," he said.

Trash piles up along a river bank after Ganesha idol immersion in Telangana

"The Chief Minister is more interested in organising festivals of other religions but not the Ganesh festival which is very unfortunate. The State government is not showing the same interest in Ganesh festival as it does in celebrating Bathukamma, Bonalu, Moharrum, Ramzan and Christmas," he added.

Hitting back at BGUS for its "irresponsible statements", Minister for Animal Husbandry, Talasani Srinivas Yadav said that the Samithi is trying to tarnish the image of the State government.

"As the Ganesh festival is pride for Hyderabad city, the State government is making elaborate arrangements for smooth conduct of idol immersion on Friday. It is the government's responsibility and BGUS should not worry about the arrangements. ," he said.

"The BGUS members are provoking people in the name of God. They are dividing people and it's very unfortunate. Due to Covid-19 pandemic, we had low-key festivities in the last two years. This year, it will be a grand affair," the Minister assured.

Meanwhile, BJP State president Bandi Sanjay has warned the State government against imposing restrictions on idol immersions in the Hussainsagar and warned that if hurdles were created for devotees, all idols will be taken to Pragathi Bhavan for immersion.

Speaking to the media at BJP's party office in Nampally, Sanjay has alleged that the ruling TRS was trying to curtail Hinduism from growing in the city only to appease the MIM.

₹300 cr sanctioned to upgrade infra in Bengaluru, says CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Monday admitted that the infrastructure is not up to the mark to handle the devastating floods in Bengaluru following heavy rain through Sunday night and Monday morning. "The problems people are facing will be solved. Rs 300 crore will be released to repair the infrastructure in Bengaluru," he said..

He requested the public to have confidence in him. "Bridges and storm water drains will be built. This is a challenge and we seek people's cooperation at this hour. In the first five days of this month, the city has received 150 per cent more rain than normal for the entire month. This is the highest in the last 42 years. Mahadevapura and KR Puram have recorded very heavy rainfall," he said.

After interacting with deputy commissioners and officials from across the state through video-conference, he said that two SDRF teams with 33 members each have been deployed in Mahadevapura and Bommanahalli zones. The teams have been given boats. Three more SDRF teams, including one more in Bengaluru, will be set up and Rs 9.5 crore has already been sanctioned. Retired military personnel will be hired for these teams, he added.

A team from the Centre will be in the state on Tuesday to assess rain damage. "Without waiting for their report, the state government will release Rs 600 crore, of which Rs 300 crore will be for Bengaluru alone. The money will be used to repair roads, buildings, schools, transformers and other infrastructure. Already Rs 1,500 crore has been sanctioned to construct storm water drains and the work is on," he said.

On the flooding of pump houses that has hit water supply to the city, he said efforts are on to take out water and carry out repairs that could take two to three days. BBMP and BWSSB commissioners have been told to supply water through borewells and tankers, he said.

Bengaluru is witnessing floods as all the 164 lakes are full because of heavy rain. "To manage lakes better, crest gates will be installed at all big lakes. In many places, lake beds have been encroached and I have asked officials to clear them. It will be done soon," he added.

₹11,000 cr sought till last week: CM

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said his government has submitted a memorandum to the Centre seeking Rs 11,000 crore to handle rain damage. This excludes the destruction over the last one week. "We have told deputy commissioners to give us a clear picture by Tuesday evening. The Met Department has predicted more rain over the next four days in both the south and north-interior regions," he added.

He said the space sector is an integral part of the digital economy being developed in India, and contributes to causes like communication and Earth observation. "All these technologies will eventually come into use in these areas, and this is understood by not only the Department of Space but other departments too. Building a functioning space ecosystem is a tough job and there is a long way to go, primarily due to the risks associated with the space sector. However, we have been growing the industry much faster than I had expected," he said.

UP actress alleges TTD demanded ₹10,000 for ticket; Trust clarifies

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Vijayawada

AFTER Archana Goutham, an actress, alleged that she was demanded to pay ₹10,000 for darshan of Lord Venkateswara, the Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams (TTD) on Monday refuted her allegations and issued a clarification.

Earlier in the day, the actress posted a video on social media platforms, alleging that the TTD staff demanded her to pay ₹10,000 for darshan. She had also lodged a complaint, stating that TTD staff manhandled her.

Responding, the TTD said, "Uttar Pradesh-based Shivakant Tiwari along with Archana Goutham and seven others brought a letter from a Union Minister for darshan on August 30. Following this, they were allotted ₹300-darshan tickets. An SMS informing the same was sent to Tiwari's mobile number."

Stating that the group did not avail the darshan, the Trust said Tiwari approached the Additional Executive Officer's office the next day (August 31) and sought the tickets. The on-duty staff informed him their tickets had expired.

"Meanwhile, Goutham rushed into the office and began verbally abusing the staff. Tiwari was a mute spectator. Though the TTD staff tried to explain the situation to her, she turned a deaf ear and even manhandled one of the staff members," the TTD said and added that the staff finally allotted them ₹300-tickets for the second time.

However, instead of going for darshan, the actress lodged a complaint against the TTD staff at the II-Town Police Station, alleging that he manhandled and abused her, the Trust said.

"Following her complaint, the police called up the TTD staff and enquired into the matter. The staff showed the police a video of the incident, where the actress could be seen using filthy language against the staff and hitting an employee. Goutham then left the police station," the TTD maintained.

The Trust said when she insisted on tickets for Break Darshan, the staff advised her to take SRIVANI Trust ticket and opt for VIP Break Darshan on September 1 for which she was required to ₹10,500.

KCR to begin national political journey from Nizamabad in T'gana

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Nizamabad

TELANGANA Rashtra Samithi supremo and Chief Minister K Chandrasekhar Rao on Monday said that he would announce his national political journey from Nizamabad.

After inaugurating the Integrated District Office Complex (IDOC) and TRS district party office building here, he addressed a public meeting at the Griraj College grounds.

He predicted the downfall of the BJP in the 2024 elections and formation of a farmers' government at Delhi. "Very soon we will see a BJP-mukth Bharath," he reiterated. The Chief Minister stressed the need for secular and democratic parties to come together to drive out communal forces. He said that the new government would provide free power to the farmers all over the country. Rao accused the Narendra Modi government of writing off ₹ 12 lakh crore loans of industrialists. "But he is not willing to pay ₹1.45 lakh crore per annum to provide free power to the farmers who consume only 20 per cent of the electricity in the country. Instead, the BJP government is bent on fixing meters to electric pumps and burden the farmers with power bills. The Prime Minister after privatising several key sectors is now planning to do the same with the agriculture sector. He is trying to create a situation in which the farmers would be compelled to handover their land to industrialists," he alleged.

"After decades of struggle we have achieved a separate Telangana and we are not sparing any efforts to put the State on the path to progress. It's right time for us to play a key role in setting things right at national level. If we don't accept our responsibility, the country will suffer an irreparable damage." He received a resounding 'no' from the public at the meeting when he asked whether they wanted rivers to flow with water or blood of communal passions.

"The Narendra Modi government has failed on all fronts and, to cover up its failures and continue in power, it's bringing divisions among opposition parties and pulling down non-BJP governments in States," he alleged.

State's 1st govt-run army selection training school in Udupi

PRAKASH SAMAGA @ Udupi

UDUPI and Dakshina Kannada districts have been blamed that a very few youths showed interest to join the defense forces. For many reasons, youths from these twin districts did not join the defense forces in good numbers, one being lack of guidance and training through proper mentorship. However, the state's first government-run army selection training school will start in Udupi district in 15 days.

Backward Classes Welfare department, Karnataka is opening the 'Koti Chennaya Army Selection Training School' in Barkur, Brahmavara taluk, Udupi district.

The training school is named after legendary Tuluva twin heroes Koti and Chennaya. 100 youths will be admitted for the first batch and will undergo four months of tough training to help them join the Indian Defense Forces as 'Agniveers'.

Free meals and accommodation will be given to the trainees. Already, 60 of them have been selected and will be on roll in 15 days as training will begin. 40 more will be enrolled soon. Candidates from Backward classes have 75 per cent reservation and SC candidates have 25 per cent reservation.

Karnataka State Backward Classes and Social Welfare Minister Kota Srinivas Poojary told TNIE that this type of training school will be opened in Dakshina Kannada and Uttara Kannada districts too and later will be opened in all remaining districts in the months to come.

He added that those who get trained in these schools have better chances of getting selected for the defense forces.

Udupi District Minister S Angara who hails from Dakshina Kannada district said that the interest among the youth to join the armed forces is gradually improving in the coast, for which this training school will be a supporting factor.

This, he said, was evident as more than 100 youth from his native Sullia taluk participated in the ongoing Agnipath recruitment rally in Haveri.

Former MLC Captain Ganesh Karnik who has served in the Indian Army and retired as a Captain, said that 'Agnipath' was planned after carefully studying the recruitment strategies of forces of other countries.

KK Shailaja, former Kerala health minister, could have been the first resident Keralite—fifth overall—and the first woman from the state to receive the prestigious Ramon Magsaysay Award had not her party, the CPM, asked her to decline the honour. While the answer to the question as to why the CPM did what it did lies in the inner-party dynamics, the party leadership came out with some reasons for public consumption after this paper broke the news of Shailaja being denied a deserving recognition.

One, the party said Kerala's handling of the Nipah and Covid crises and the strides it made in the public health sector when she was health minister could not be attributed to her alone. It was a collective effort of the state government. A government's achievement is teamwork, but honour for individuals who led the effort can be seen as recognition for the whole system. Two, the party claimed the award has never been bestowed on a person active in politics. The CPM seems to have ignored that it's the award foundation that decides the criteria, and the party itself has no say. Three, it argued that it had reservations about accepting the award named after a person (former president of The Philippines, Ramon Magsaysay) known for the oppression of communists in his country. This ideological reasoning falls flat when considering that the party would not have objected if the award had been given to the state government. Moreover, the award instituted in 1957 has, over the years, acquired a stature that goes beyond the persona of Magsaysay, and the list of awardees includes personalities like Vinoba Bhave, Mother Teresa, and Jayaprakash Narayan.

CPM's justification only lays bare its hypocrisy, failure to see beyond petty ego battles within the party, and inability to move on with the times and learn from past mistakes. It was in 1996 that the party declined the offer to make Jyoti Basu the prime minister in what was later described by the communist legend himself as a 'historic blunder'. It has committed another blunder by not allowing Shailaja to accept global recognition.

A Magsaysay for Shailaja would have been the recognition Kerala richly deserved, its Left politics desperately needed and a booster dose for its health sector. Unfortunately, a non-political honour for an able administrator has been scuttled in the name of politics.

TEAM INDIA FOCUS ON PROCESS FOR RIGHT MIX

With the T20 World Cup beginning in less than 45 days, India, like the other elite teams, has begun dotting the i's and crossing the t's. With most of the team locked and loaded, the race is on to identify the other players on the plane to Australia. The ongoing Asia Cup in the United Arab Emirates is an exercise in identifying those players. It's a big audition for the likes of KL Rahul, coming off a layoff. Axar Patel, the left-arm spinner, is another man who might receive a call-up considering Ravindra Jadeja's place in the side is a question mark following injury concerns.

That the team now has a new way of approaching the power-play overs—evident since the debacle at last year's World Cup—being wedded to that approach against the best bowlers in a series with context was going to be the first real challenge. Against Pakistan on Sunday, that was one of the big pluses. Former skipper Virat Kohli was among the runs too. With the team set to play a minimum of two more matches, it will be interesting to see if the likes of Patel own the stage to give the selectors a welcome headache.

Speaking of the India-Pakistan encounter, something predictable played itself following Arshdeep Singh's dropped catch. The ugly side of the game reared its head. These things happen in sports, but it doesn't give any right to 'fans' to unload on a young man. Granted, emotions can run high, but one must not get carried away, irrespective of the result. A lost match is a lot of things, but it is not a greeting to abuse the young bowler.

Of course, this thing isn't just limited to Indian 'fans'. We saw similar scenes playing out on social media after three young English players missed penalties at last year's Euro finals against Italy. They were racially abused, and one of the player's mural was defaced as hate overran the streets. It's time the authorities step in to police the comments players receive online. It's a sacred place of work, and you would not want that place to become a toxic cesspool of anger and hatred. As it is, the life of a sportsperson is very short, and the pressure to perform is immense. They can do without loons and anonymous social media bigots using the platform to spread toxicity.

QUICK TAKE

COST OF LEADERSHIP

Every life is meaningful. However, the lives of high-value individuals (HVI) also impact industry, policy, and leadership. India has lost many pioneers from industry, politics, science, and services to accidents. The worst example is the 1963 accident in Poonch that killed six distinguished officers of the armed forces. Cyrus Mistry is the latest. Today, India has a well-oiled security protocol to protect these leaders. We may now need a similar protocol for their safe transportation, especially in cars and helicopters. They must be driven in a controlled environment. And wearing seat belts in the rear must become mandatory for all.

Since he was ousted as Chairman of Tata Sons in a bloodied corner-room coup in 2016, Mistry fought to defend his professional legacy, apart from family heritage

CYRUS MISTRY: A CORPORATE CHILD OF REFORMS

ALAM SRINIVAS
Independent journalist and author

SOURAV ROY

He can be counted among the numerous corporate children of the reforms era, the creation of liberalisation. As he matured, the late Cyrus Mistry, who died in a sad and sensational car accident, evolved as an international citizen, a product of globalisation. He was involved in the successful making, and reshaping, of two Indian multinational groups. But unlike Pico Iyer, the author of several books, including The Global Soul, Mistry was not an "uprooted person" and never had to grapple with "ideas of marginalised cultures, loss of the Real, and the shifting sense of identity" in a post-modern world.

With his feet firmly planted in India, Mistry had a bird's eye view of the corporate planet. He took his family business, Shapoorji Pallonji Group, to great heights with operations in India, the Middle East and Africa. As a director of Tata Sons, the holding company of the tech-to-truck Tata conglomerate, he engaged with Tata Group's massive and controversial global takeovers of Corus Steel and Jaguar-Land Rover. Later, as Tata Sons' Chairman, he developed a new Indian MNC vision to focus on new opportunities and shed old brick-and-mortar businesses.

Unfortunately, in the past few years of his life, he was caught in intense boardroom battles, a war among business Tsars, and terrifying legal-media strife between two equally confident and stubborn personalities.

In India's business history, his clash with Ratan Tata will define Mistry's achievements or lack thereof. For those unaware, since he was ousted as Chairman of Tata Sons in a bloodied corner-room coup in 2016, Mistry fought to defend his professional legacy, apart from family heritage. He was caught between the need to project an image of the new breed of entrepreneur professionals and the pressures to pursue dynastic desires. This was possibly Mistry's biggest weakness.

In the early 1990s, as India embarked on the reforms path, Mistry became the head of the family's flagship, the construction giant Shapoorji Pallonji & Co, when he was in his twenties. This was the time of unprecedented corporate churn, a liberalisation-led manthan.

The Indian business theatre was the foundation (Lord Vishnu's Kurma avatar as a tortoise in mythology), free-market policies acted as Mount Mandara or the pole, and ever-evolving and ever-changing corporate strategies emerged as the giant serpent (Vasuki). Existing companies were rocked, rolled, wrecked and cracked during the decade.

Many business families died or declined—Modi and Dalmia in the north, Sarabhai and Mafatlal in the west, and TVS and MAC in the south. Some went through tumultuous ups and downs—Bajaj, Goenka, Thapar, Ranbaxy Brothers and Mallya. New names cropped up. These included first-generation industrialists with trading and professional backgrounds—Gupta of Havells, software satraps like Infosys' founders and Shiv Nadar, and tech giants like co-founders of Flipkart and Byju's. Only a few pre-reforms families thrived—Ratan Tata, the Ambani clan, and K M Birla. Among these elites was the Mistry lineage, led by Cyrus.

During the early 2000s, Tata Sons appointed Cyrus Mistry as a director, a post earlier held by his father. This was logical as the Mistry family held a huge stake in Ratan Tata's holding company for decades. At present, it is just over 18%.

From this vantage point, the future Chairman of Tata Sons witnessed tectonic changes unleashed by Ratan Tata, who went overboard and left no purse-strings unopened to buy out large global steel and auto companies successfully. Corus Steel and Jaguar-Land Rover held emotional and anti-colonial connotations—an Indian taking over established and renowned British brands.

There are two schools of thought, which emerged after the Tata-Mistry spat, on Mistry's position on the takeovers. The first states that he supported Ratan, who sought crucial advice from Mistry. The second states that the Shapoorji scion was nervous about mega cross-border deals based on emotions and personal ambitions. He felt that business decisions had to be rational and based on data and strategies rather than dreams and desires. The fact that Mistry didn't oppose them as a director—Tata later made him Chairman—favours the first theory. The fact that he opposed them after he became Chairman hints at the second.

Around his self-imposed retirement, at 75, Ratan Tata searched the planet for his successor at Tata Sons. He shunned half-brother Noel, who is married to Mistry's sister, Aloo, in favour of a professional. Thus, like business families before him, Ratan wished to decouple ownership from management—Tata might be owners of Tata Sons and Tata Group, but a professional would run both. At the end of the worldwide hunt, Tata Sons anointed an insider-outsider, Mistry, to take over the reins in 2012. Sadly, like in other business families, the experiment flopped miserably within five years.

Tata accused Mistry of taking Tata Group on a dangerous course. The new Chairman of Tata Sons, and head of high-profile listed firms within the group, pursued new takeovers (Welspun's renewable energy assets) and decided to exit high-profile operations like UK's Corus Steel.

He criticised Tata Nano and the telecom venture. Mistry charged that Tata trusts, which owned majority stakes in Tata Sons, interfered in the group's decisions. Ratan was unwilling to give up control and meddled in crucial strategies. Since steel and small cars were his dream projects, Ratan could not let go of the loss-making operations.

In 2016, Tata Sons unceremoniously sacked Mistry. Other group firms followed suit. Mistry didn't take it lying down. As accusations and allegations flew thick and fast, he took Tata to court. The battles were fought in the courts and on the front pages of the newspapers.

Both individuals fought to preserve their egos, credibility, and family traditions. Ratan wanted the world to know that he was the true successor of the renowned J R D Tata. Mistry wanted to convey he was the poster boy of this century's band of professional entrepreneurs. A child of reforms took on another one—ironic that Ratan took over from J R D in 1991.

MISINFORMATION GALORE IN TODAY'S INDIA

KARAN BHASIN
New York-based economist

The last few years have seen me focus more on information and how it is processed by individuals and households. Information matters because it helps shape up expectations—and expectations are important in determining economic outcomes.

Unfortunately, we know little about expectations although there has been a renewed interest in this area. But even as we continue to better understand and explain the formation of expectations, it is equally important to look at the quality of information.

Ultimately, information has to be processed by economic agents to form their expectations. Therefore, both the quality of information and the mechanism for processing such information are important determinants of expectations. This is more so when there is a big difference between expectations and actual outcomes.

Unfortunately, there has been a trend in misinformation in India over the last several months. Much of this misinformation is perhaps not intentional and often an outcome of errors in understanding official decisions or notifications.

Some of it is also due to the immense pressure to generate clicks which leads to clickbait headlines that do not inform the reader—but instead add to the overall confusion. The problem is not just limited to India but is one that is just as pervasive in many other parts of the world, irrespective of whether a country is developing or developed.

To illustrate the point about misinformation, let us just look at India and consider information or news over the last one month. There are at least 10 such instances concerning just economic news that immediately strike my mind. Of these, seven are concerned with the Goods and Services Tax.

It may be useful to provide a reminder that the Goods and Services Tax is levied not by the Union government but by the GST Council, which comprises state finance ministers. However, somehow, state governments that are most vocal for compensation (and presumably also for hiking rates) are also the most vocal opponents of the GST changes even when some of the changes were recommended by their state finance ministers. Somehow, we have allowed for delinking of state finance ministers from the GST and thereby have enabled them to make changes and then oppose those changes without assuming any responsibility for the overall GST taxation structure.

In the last one month alone, I have come across stories about 18% GST on house rent for tenants—which was later found to be fake. Then there was another story about GST on crematorium services—which again was found to be untrue. Then there was another fake news about GST on Garba, followed by yet another about GST on booking cancellations.

But the list does not stop here. Apart from these four, we also find news reports about

> It is not new that official government language is unclear and hard to understand—this has always been the case. Therefore, it is important to ask why there are such frequent misinterpretations of important economic changes. This is especially needed as misinterpretations like these play a role in impacting the economic expectations of agents

GST on issuance of cheques, on final costs of the national flag, and a distorted representation of 5% GST on all essential food items. Each of these stories were not true and ignored the context of the notification. This led to several departments issuing clarifications that were not necessarily required.

It is not new that official government language is unclear and hard to understand—this has always been the case. Therefore, it is important to ask why there are such frequent misinterpretations of important economic changes. This is especially needed as misinterpretations like these play a role in impacting the economic expectations of agents.

But even more importantly, bad quality of information essentially implies reduced trust between citizens and conventional sources of information. This too can have implications as citizens look at other, "more" authentic sources of information—that may perhaps not be so authentic after all.

Beyond the GST, we also saw fake news about the size of the Indian economy, with some saying that India slipped to the 164th rank in the list of fastest growing nations in 2021 from being the "third-largest" economy in 2011. To compare growth and levels in itself is incorrect—this suggests that some of this information or "news" is with the intent of convenient cherry-picking of data to make a point that may conform to the opinion of the writer.

Another such instance is when the recent paper by the Reserve Bank of India on privatisation was misconstructed to be RBI's view on the subject. The RBI article itself had problems and many would respond to it in the form of critiques as it looked at only "potential benefits" even as it ignored the costs in the form of fiscal support extended to these banks. The recent NCAER paper by Dr Arvind Panagariya and Dr Poonam Gupta is a good starting point for those still curious about why we must privatise public sector banks.

There was also a story about petrol and diesel prices not being reduced despite global crude oil prices decreasing. After further inquiry, even that story turned out to be factually incorrect, making it the last of the 10 economic stories that were not true in the last month alone.

It is therefore only natural that I wonder—why is there a sudden increase in misinformation? Has our ability to comprehend notifications reduced, or is it because 2024 is just around the corner? Ultimately, as Kishore Kumar said, "Yeh jo public hai, sab janti hai!"

A Red blunder

Apropos of CPM goes defensive on award row (September 5). Sitaram Yechury's justifications for Shailaja rejecting the Magsaysay award are baseless. This takes us back to 1996, when Jyoti Basu could not become PM since his party, Communist Party of India (Marxist), decided not to join the United Front government. Denying Shailaja an award that was for her meritorious work during disease outbreaks is a hallmark of the almost defunct CPI (M) in Kerala. My sympathies are with Shailaja.

Shailaja rejects Magsaysay

It could have been a matter of pride for Kerala if K K Shailaja accepted the Ramon Magsaysay Award for her work in tackling the Nipah and Covid outbreak. She would have been the first Keralite woman to get the prestigious award.

Column on Confucius

Apropos of From across the high Himalayas (September 5). The story about Confucius aptly portrays ancient wisdom. The writer narrates a story about how a provincial leader was ridiculed for making positive changes. He then stopped making those changes and became likeable. This is where we are today.

Inspiring story

I read with interest Renuka Narayanan's column, From across the high Himalayas (Sept 5). It was very informative and inspiring. The phrase, "geopolitics aside" could not be more true. I'm addressing a function on Teachers' Day today and your 'jade' story will be quoted.

Legacy of Gorbachev

The column Gorbachev: His legacy and validity in today's world (September 5) paints a descriptive portrait of the man who played a pivotal role in ending the Cold War. Those who love world peace may revere him, but those who blindly believe the outdated communist ideologies may detest him. However, he cannot be ignored by any historian.

Evil mother

It is heartbreaking to read Classmate's mom kills boy in rage over rank (September 5). Just because she was jealous that he was performing better than her daughter, she killed him. As a septuagenarian, I have vast experience in teaching—never have I come across something as evil as this. Apart from punishing the woman, parent-teacher associations must educate parents and students about academics and mental health.

Airlines can offer fares as per demand & supply, says Scindia

UNION Civil Aviation Minister Jyotiraditya Scindia says bringing down excessive costs and introducing measures for the financial sustainability of airlines are top priorities of the government. In an interview to Preetha Nair, Scindia speaks about measures taken to reduce the Aviation Turbine Fuel (ATF) prices and the growth plans for the aviation sector. Excerpts:

The government has lifted the cap on domestic airfares from Aug 31. Can flyers expect respite in airfares?

We decided to do away with fare bands because ATF prices were showing a downward trajectory, and fares stabilised. It is a free market now, and airlines can offer fares as per demand and supply. I am hopeful that this will benefit customers as well.

To check predatory or excessive pricing, a tariff monitoring unit under the DGCA monitors airfares on 50 routes selected on a random basis every month.

This is to ensure that airlines do not charge airfares outside the range declared on their websites. The fare bands came as a special measure during the Covid period to stop airlines from charging excessive fares and to ensure viability of operations.

Domestic air travel is on a rebound. Will higher ATF prices and rupee depreciation pose a threat to the recovery process?

The ATF price is market-determined and public sector oil marketing companies take decisions on the pricing of ATF in line with market conditions. The decision to include ATF under GST rests with the GST Council. Meanwhile, we have tried to persuade state and UT governments to lower the VAT levied by them on ATF from the exorbitant range of 1%-29%. More than a dozen states/UTs have brought it down to 1%-5% — Karnataka has brought it down from 28% to 18%. The remaining states are also being nudged to bring them into the low-tax regime.

The price of ATF, although still high, has relatively declined from the peak levels by almost 12%. We are working with oil marketing companies through the Ministry of Petroleum and Natural Gas to work out a mechanism to bring down the margin between crude oil and ATF prices. Bringing down excessive costs and introducing measures for the financial sustainability of airlines have been part of our top priorities.

Kerala has flagged 'exorbitantly high' international and domestic ticket charges affecting NRIs and the tourism sector...

Air ticket prices depend on various factors such as holiday seasons, festivals, weekends, among others. The current increase in airfares to and from Kerala can be attributed to two factors. There is more demand during July and August due to Eid festival and school holidays in Gulf countries, Secondly, due to the unprecedented global geo-political situation, ATF prices have increased by about four times from ₹32,424/KL in April 2020 to ₹1,21,915/KL in August 2022. Currently, about 50% of operational cost is on account of fuel prices. Hence, there has been a steep rise in fares worldwide.

DGCA has flagged many safety concerns and maintenance-related glitches involving carriers. Are reforms needed?

I want to make it clear — safety is paramount for us. The DGCA, the entity in charge of safety, has ramped up its oversight mechanism. In 2019-20, it undertook 2,275 checks as per its annual surveillance plan (ASP). This year, we have a strong ASP totaling 3,709 regulatory checks, which is on track. We are in touch with managers and flight safety in-charge of each airline. We have sensitised them about their responsibilities.

Fresh measures are on the cards to ramp up oversight. We are also keeping a close check on every occurrence; there will be no compromise on the safety and security of passengers.

How will you increase the number of flyers from the current 4%?

Raising the number of travellers has been work-in-progress for eight years, where reforms, both on the demand and the supply side, are envisaged; and many put into action as well. Owing to PM Modi's vision of making travel affordable for the common man, the government brought the UDAN scheme. As a result, travel grew by 10.5% between FY 2010-15, which increased to 31.2% between FY 15 & FY 20. With new thrust on the proliferation of helicopters and small aircraft, this trend is only going to translate into greater last-mile connectivity, including in remote areas.

On the supply side, several measures are underway to ensure the financial sustainability of airlines and airports. The birth of Akasa Air is a healthy sign for the sector, and will infuse competition among low-cost carriers. We are bullish on building and upgrading airport infrastructure as well, especially in tier-2 and tier-3 cities. Our target is to take the total airports from the current 140 to 220 by 2025-26. Simultaneously, India's aircraft fleet size is expected to double in the next five years (from 700 to 1,200 aircraft).

How will you ensure last-mile connectivity considering air and ground space are mostly controlled by mega airports?

Since Independence until 2014, India had about 74 airports that had scheduled operations. We now have 141 airports. Under UDAN, during the last 5 years — which includes 2.5 years of the Covid-19 pandemic, 433 new routes have been operationalised. So far, more than 1.04 crore people have availed of the scheme. The North-East is connected to strategically-located airports. Based on UDAN, four states have developed their own civil aviation policy.

A large number of hitherto unconnected areas in 36 states and UTs are now present on the aviation map of the country.

Last-mile connectivity is a natural way forward for India's civil aviation sector. Here's why — while mega metro airports are currently driving the maximum chunk of traffic, the growth rate for air travel in the non-metro cities has been far greater. We have taken the UDAN scheme a step further by rolling out a small aircraft scheme to bring small aircraft and helicopters to the fore.

NITISH MEETS RAHUL TO FIRM UP OPPN UNITY

During 3-day Delhi visit, he may also meet Arvind Kejriwal, Sharad Pawar, Akhilesh Yadav

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

IN a bid to unite Opposition parties, Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar met Congress leader Rahul Gandhi in New Delhi on Monday. The two leaders are believed to have discussed the political situation in the country and the need to put up united opposition to fight BJP in the 2024 general elections.

Talking to the media after his meeting with Gandhi, Bihar CM denied harbouring any Prime Ministerial ambitions. "There is a concerted effort to weaken the Opposition parties (by projecting sch possibilities). I intend to unite the parties against BJP and I have no desire to pitch myself as a PM candidate," said Nitish.

Later, Nitish also met JD(S) leader HD Kumaraswamy at JD (S) patriarch Deve Gowda's residence in the capital.

The three-day visit of JD(U) supremo to the capital has created a buzz in political circles as he is scheduled to meet several leaders including Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal, CPI (M) leader Sitaram Yechury, Samajwadi Party chief Akhilesh Yadav, and NCP chief Sharad Pawar among others.

Incidentally, this is Nitish Kumar's first visit to Delhi after he snapped ties with the BJP and formed the government with Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD), Congress, and other Opposition parties in Bihar. Ever since he parted ways with the BJP, Nitish has been making public statements against the BJP government at the Centre and the need to bring all Opposition parties together to fight the BJP in the 2024 Lok Sabha elections. Though speculations have been rife about Nitish in the race for the PM post in 2024, he has vehemently denied such a possibility. However, JD(U) leaders and Deputy CM and RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav have been pitching Nitish as the joint PM candidate of the Opposition.

Speaking to TNIE, JD(U) spokesperson KC Tyagi said that the party has given Nitish the responsibility to bring all Opposition parties together. "We will cross the bridge when it comes to choosing the PM," he said.

Party not in favour of third front minus Cong: JD-U

While KCR's Telangana Rashtra Samithi (TRS) and Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) oppose any alliance with Congress in their respective states, JD(U) leader said that his party is not in favour of the third front minus Congress. "Opposition unity will be a pipe dream without Congress on board," he said. Congress is one of the allies of the Grand Alliance in Bihar.

While there are leaders such as Arvind Kejriwal, West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee and Telangana Chief Minister K Chandrashekhar Rao likely to be in the race for the post of PM in 2024, Tyagi said that JD(U) will strive to bring them together. "It is a difficult task as there is internal friction among some parties. But it's not impossible," he said. While KCR's Telangana Rashtra Samithi (TRS) and Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) oppose any alliance with Congress in their respective states, JD(U) leader said that his party is not in favour of the third front minus Congress.

"Opposition unity will be a pipe dream without Congress on board," he said. Congress is one of the allies of the Grand Alliance in Bihar.

Last week, KCR visited Bihar and both Nitish and KCR have called for a 'BJP mukt Bharath'. However, KCR evaded questions on Rahul Gandhi as the PM candidate for 2024.

Sources said that Nitish Kumar is planning to intensify his campaign by visiting Maharashtra, Haryana, and Karnataka to seek support from Opposition parties.

Hijab order: 'Muslim women disadvantaged'

CONSIDERING the contention of senior advocate Sanjay Hegde that dress code was not among the subjects on which the state could formulate rules, the bench comprising Justices Hemant Gupta and Sudhanshu Dhulia asked as to whether students could come in middies, miniskirts if state did not have the power to prescribe uniforms.

"If there is no specific power, Article 161 will come in. If there is no such power to prescribe uniforms, can girls come in middies, miniskirts, whatever they want? If there is no prescription, then the state's executive power comes into play. We need not follow what the HC has said. If the act doesn't prohibit or prescribe any dress code, will the executive power of the state come or not?" the bench remarked.

You may have a religious right to practise whatever you want to practise. But can you practise and take that right to a school which has uniform as a part of dress you have to wear?

Hegde contended that the government order (GO) dated February 5 passed by the state that did not allow students to wear hijab or customary Islamic headscarf to educational institutions created substantial disadvantage to Muslim women.

In a first, Pak accepts slain terrorist's body

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

FOR perhaps the first time in over three decades, the Pakistan Army on Monday accepted the body of a terrorist, who had died of cardiac arrest while undergoing treatment for injuries sustained during a gunfight with Indian forces.

The trained terrorist of the Lashkar-e-Toiba, identified as Tabarak Hussain, a resident of Pakistan-occupied Kashmir, had attempted to infiltrate into J&K on August 21 to attack an Army camp, according to defence sources. Hussain was injured in an enounter with the Army and was captured. He was undergoing treatment at a military hospital in Rajouri when he died of cardiac arrest on Saturday. "We informed the Pakistan Army about his death and requested them to take his body. They agreed and the body was handed over to them today," an Army officer said.

The hand over happened at Chakan Da Bagh point on the Line of Control in Poonch district. According to defence spokesperson Lt Col Devender Anand, after his capture, Hussain revealed his plans to attack an Indian Army post on the LoC. The officer said, Hussain and other terrorists were sent by a Colonel of Pakistan's spy agency named Yunus Chaudhry, who had paid them 30,000 Pakistani Rupees to undertake the mission. Hussain was earlier arrested from the same sector in 2016 along with his brother Haroon Ali, and was repatriated on humanitarian grounds in November 2017.

Court martial: BSF court accused of ignoring proof

CHANDAN NANDY @ New Delhi

A piquant situation has arisen in the Border Security Force (BSF) with a four-member General Security Force Court (GSFC), which tried a commandant based at Bandipur in Kashmir on six grave charges of misconduct early this year, was last month itself accused by the paramilitary force's top leadership for "blatantly disregarding the evidence on record" during the court martial proceedings.

In a strongly-worded letter to the GSFC members, including a commandant of the force's 163rd battalion in Srinagar, a DIG from the Confidential Section, writing "for and on behalf of DG BSF", said that after the case was "examined in detail at this HQ...the DG BSF has taken a serious view of act of omission and commission on your part...and proposed to convey his warning to you".

The GSFC members were also served a "show cause as to why the DG's warning should not be conveyed to you for the above omission and commission on your part".

Documents show that the GSFC trial, which is the most stringent among the three categories of proceedings under the 1968 BSF Act, was held against Bandipur-based Commandant Deepak Kandpal at Kupwara between January 17 and February 18, 2022, on six changes. However, the "GSFC found the accused (Kandpal) 'Not Guilty' of all the six charges subject to confirmation of the Confirming Authority". A BSF DIG presided over the GSFC trial. An August 10 "confidential" BSF note reveals that "during scrutiny of trial proceedings" by an Additional Director General (who was the confirming authority) based at BSF's Western Command, it was found that the GSFC's findings on three of the six charges were "against the weight of evidence".

'Against the weight of evidence'

An August 10 "confidential" BSF note reveals that "during scrutiny of trial proceedings" by an Additional Director General (who was the confirming authority) based at BSF's Western Command, it was found that the GSFC's findings on three of the six charges were "against the weight of evidence".

The first charge under Section 35(a) of the BSF Act against Kandpal was "for knowingly making a false statement". Kandpal had allegedly mentioned his date of departure in his "tour diary" from "Bn HQ Bhopal" as December 15, 2019 , whereas he "actually departed" on December 14, 2019.

According to the second charge, under Section 40 of the BSF Act (act prejudicial to good order and discipline), Kandpal would make "frequent calls" to a female sub-inspector "on her mobile phone at odd hours". A document reveals that "there was evidence on record that frequent calls were made by the accused" to the female SI.

Apparently, the GSFC "believed their (Kandpal's and the SI's) version and held that making these calls by Comdt to the said SI cannot be considered as prejudicial to good order and discipline as the accused, being Comdt of the Bn, has discharged his responsibility as guardian by extending his help and guidance to the needy female employee of his Battalion in good faith".

On 4-day visit, Hasina seeks to bolster bilateral ties with India

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

ON a four-day visit to India beginning Monday, Bangladesh Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina hopes to enhance trade and strategic ties with New Delhi. Given strong political and diplomatic ties, she and her delegation are hoping to achieve a lot from the visit.

After landing in Delhi, Sheikh Hasina first visited the Nizamuddin Dargah. She later met External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar, and is expected to meet Prime Minister Narendra Modi and President Draupadi Murmu tomorrow. On the last day of her visit, she will visit the dargah at Ajmer.

Her delegation includes Minister of Commerce Tipu Munshi, Railway Minister Md Nurul Islam Sujan and Liberation War Minister AKM Mozammel Haq.

Sources said river water-sharing, long-term supply of fossil fuel from India, removal of anti-dumping duty on jute exports from Bangladesh, enhancing rail, road and waterway connectivity and border security management are some of the issues that are likely to come up for discussion.

The last time Sheikh Hasina came to India was in 2019. Bangladesh today is reeling under the impact of Covid, inflation, food crisis and lower job rates. "This visit is critical for Bangladesh and the visiting delegation hopes to resolve some of the economic and political issues," said a source.

Bilateral trade between Bangladesh and India has been increasing over time. In 2021, the volume was over $ 14 billion. India has provided duty-free market access to Bangladesh under the South Asian Free Trade Area (SAFTA) arrangement, which helped Bangladesh to increase its exports. In 2021, Bangladesh's export to India was about $2 billion. Sources say Bangladesh's trade deficit with India is rising, and the country is yet to benefit from India's large import demand, which it fulfills from the global market.

A joint study by India and Bangladesh has highlighted new means for cooperation through the Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement (CEPA). This is expected to help realize opportunities in areas of trade, transport and investment connectivity.

Bangladesh is also hoping to get financial support from India under Lines of Credit arrangement in order to go ahead with developmental projects. India has extended $2 billion worth of assistance under LoC, out of which $1 billion has been disbursed.

Development projects cover sectors like railways, roads and transport, power generation, petrochemicals, economic zones and ports and shipping among others. However, Dhaka says that in 2010, India had committed to lending about $ 7.86 billion under three LoCs.

The funds disbursal is slow as a result of which the desired result hasn't been achieved.

Soren wins trust vote, says BJP can't 'threaten' us

CM alleges Himanta tried poaching MLAs

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

THE Hemant Soren government on Monday won the confidence vote in the Assembly by a comfortable margin – with 48 MLAs voting in favour in the 81-member Jharkhand House.

Uncertainty over the Soren government arose after the Election Commission reportedly sent a report recommending his disqualification over allegations that he allocated a mining lease to himself while holding the portfolio of Mines back in 2021.

Blaming the BJP for the current uncertainty in the state, Soren said that the BJP is yet to digest the fact that the public threw them out of power in 2019 after they did nothing for the poor except making elephants fly during their rule between 2014 and 2019.

"After the BJP could not compete with us politically, they started sending constitutional machinery to non-BJP ruled states and trying to destabilise the constitutionally-elected governments," said Soren.

The state government had to seek a vote of trust just to show BJP how strong they are inside the Assembly and give them a feel of how stronger we are outside it, he added.

Soren said that the onus of poaching Congress MLAs, who were caught in Bengal with a huge amount of cash, lies with Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma.

"After making a tribal President, they are trying to snatch power from a tribal Chief Minister," said Soren further saying that, "I just want to give a message through this Assembly session, that your buying and selling would not work anymore, you cannot threaten us anymore... Assembly elections will come later; you will see the results in Lok Sabha elections only," he said.

Soren further added that the way they are working in the State, BJP have got to know, and a survey has also been conducted by them which revealed that they will be whipped out from the State in the coming 2024 Assembly elections. That is why they are trying to destabilize this Government here at any cost, he said.

Meanwhile, BJP legislator party chief Babulal Marandi has written a letter to the Assembly speaker demanding cancellation of the one-day assembly session. Marandi said that the way one day session has been convened is unconstitutional as under Article 163 of the Constitution.

'Uddhav betrayed us, must be punished'

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

Union Home Minister Amit Shah with Maharashtra CM Eknath Shinde and Dy CM Devendra Fadnavis at a prominent Ganesh mandal in Mumbai on Monday | PTI

RESOLVING to teach Shiv Sena president Uddhav Thackeray a lesson in the Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation (BMC) elections, which are likely to be held in October, Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Monday kick-started the BJP's campaign for the much-awaited polls.

Shah, who has been in Mumbai since Sunday, met Maharashtra Chief Minister Eknath Shinde today before leaving for a darshan of Lalbaugcha Raja at Parel. Shah later visited BJP's Mumbai unit president Ashish Shelar's Ganesh mandal and addressed party workers there.

Reminding BJP workers that "Uddhav cheated on us in 2019," Shah said, "You can tolerate anything but not betrayal. And those who betrayed us should be punished and a lesson taught". Taking his attack against the Shiv Sena further, Shah said that in 2014 the party broke the alliance with the BJP for just two seats in the assembly polls.

"We never considered ourselves as big brother and younger brother. Shiv Sena betrayed us by stabbing us at the back. They defeated our nominees by fielding independent candidates or supporting rival candidates. The Shiv Sena and the BJP together sought votes in 2019 on PM Narendra Modi's name and the work done by erstwhile CM Devendra Fadnavis. But later they ditched us and formed a government with the Congress and the NCP," Shah said.

Reacting to Shah's attack, former Shiv Sena mayor Kishori Pednekar said that the entire world knows who cheated. "We have set out target 'mission 150' in the BMC elections. Our local party branches are working round the clock to serve people," she said.

Calling on the people to show Uddhav Thackeray his place in the BMC polls, Shah exhorted them to put the BJP in a dominant position in Mumbai.

On his part, Maharashtra Deputy Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis said that while the BJP should fight the elections as though it was for the last time, "this time, the real Shiv Sena of Eknath Shinde is with us. In the Ganesh festival, the BJP is everywhere. The Shiv Sena is nowhere to be seen. Actually, the Shiv Sena used to dominate the Ganesh festival".

Rahul promises 10L jobs, LPG at ₹500 in Gujarat

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

KICKING off his party's campaign in Gujarat, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Monday promised free electricity to farmers, creation of 10 lakh new jobs and LPG cylinder at ₹500 if his party is voted to power in the state.

Addressing the Congress workers at the 'Parivartan Sankalp Rally' at the Sabarmati riverfront in Ahmedabad, Gandhi also promised a subsidy of ₹5 per litre to milk producers. In his 29.11-minute speech, Rahul invoked the name of Sardar Patel at least 34 times, in a bid to woo the Patidar community.

Attacking the BJP, Gandhi said, "For whom did Sardar Patel fight for and why? Sardar Patel was not just a human being. You built the statue of his body, but he was not just a human, he was the voice of the farmers of Gujarat and India. Whatever he said was for the benefit of the farmers of Gujarat and India. On one hand, they built the tallest statue of Sardar Patel, and on the other hand, they attacked all those for whom Sardar Patel fought and sacrificed his entire life. What is the meaning of the statue?"

He said the Congress is fighting an ideological battle. He alleged that the state has become a hub of drugs. He said that the government didn't take any action even after a huge amount of drugs was recovered from the Mundra port.

"Gujarat is becoming the centre of drugs. The drugs worth millions were found at Mundra port but no action was taken by the ruling government. If the same drugs were found in a poor man's house, the police would beat them and send them to jail, but if drugs worth thousands of crores are found at Mundra port, no action was taken because the government belongs to three industrialists only. This is the Gujarat model." He also attacked the Gujarat government over its policy to seek permission for holding protests and said it was steeped in corruption.

"You have to take permission from those against whom you have to protest...Did Sardar Patel ask for the permission of the British for protest? Sardar Patel would have said that throw out the government which asks the people of Gujarat to seek its permission to protest," he said.

Gandhi said that Congress will grant a loan waiver to farmers. "Wherever we come to power, our first job will be to do what Sardar Patel would have done. Here too, we will waive the loan of up to ₹3 lakh of farmers," he said.

₹30,000 CRORE REVENUE

BIDS OUT, PVT PASSENGER TRAINS CAN FIX FARE

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

THE railways has for the first time invited bids from private entities to run 150 pairs of passenger trains through the public-private partnership (PPP) mode. Significantly, private entities shall have the liberty to decide passenger fares on these trains that can run at a maximum speed of 160 kmph. The arrangement is expected to fetch the railways around ₹30,000 crore revenue from the private sector.

"The Ministry of Railways has initially identified 150 pairs of passenger train services with new rakes that can be run through private participation. The numbers could be scaled up depending upon its success," said a well-placed source.

These trains will be part of 12 clusters across the railway network. Each of these trains shall have a minimum length of 384 m, which is equivalent to 16 coaches.

"The private party shall be liable for financing, procuring, operation and maintenance of the trains. They can procure trains either through ownership or leasing models," sources said. The railways shall provide fixed infrastructures like access to rakes, stations, train control system, watering and cleaning lines. But the private parties will have to pay fixed haulage charges, energy charges and a share in the gross revenue to the railways.

Private players will be selected through a two-stage process —request for qualification and request for proposal.

To prod Rlys to get its act together

The project has been structured to give a balanced focus on safeguarding the interests of both the railways and the private players, sources said. Running private trains will prod railways into improve its services

Cong petitions CBI with 7 charges against Himanta

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

THE Assam Congress on Monday petitioned the CBI with seven charges against Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma and others and demanded an immediate inquiry to unearth the truth and take actions against them.

The Congress said during the recent inauguration of an international school on the outskirts of Guwahati which the CM's wife Riniki Bhuyan Sarma owns, she had publicly announced he is its founder.

"But being the head of the state of Assam, how can a CM run an international school?" the Congress asked.

The party alleged a company "RBS Realtors" (now Vasistha Realtors) had transferred unaccounted money from Kolkata to many firms belonging to the Assam CM's family. "In RBS Realtors, Ashok Dhanuka is all time director and he is also involved in Jharkhand MLA horse trading case. Money transaction done by RBS Realtors from Kolkata should be investigated by the CBI," the Congress demanded.

The party also sought a probe into an alleged land scam in which, it claimed, the CM's family and RBS Realtors were involved. "Golden Thread Company is owned by the wife of CM Sarma. The company purchases all silk and muga at a cheap price from the weavers and sell them at a very high price," the Congress alleged.

The party said a huge quantity of PPE kits were purchased by the Assam government during the pandemic, allegedly violating prescribed norms, the Congress said.

Cops in 24-hr rooster chase over ownership row

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

CALL it a wild rooster chase that sent three Bengal cops running after the bird to decide who owned it. Finally, the bird did come home to roost after 24 hours, ending the tricky runaround for the exhausted cops.

On Friday (September 2), curious residents of South Dinajpur's Balurghat watched with fun as the police "investigation" got underway after two persons staked their claim on the rooster.

The officer-in-charge of the police station, Shantinath Panja, allowed the cock to roam freely, asking his men to follow the bird: wherever it would roost at the end of the day, its owner would have it all.

Three policemen kept an eye on the rooster as it pranced around.

On Friday evening, homemaker Chumki Sarkar, a resident of Bhairabitala in Balurghat town, turned up at the police station alleging that her rooster was taken away by one of her neighbours Debasish Biswas, an e-rickshaw driver.

"I recently purchased the fowl from a chicken vendor. Biswas took it away and claimed it was his bird," Chumki told the police.

Armed with the complainant, police went to Biswas' house. "He claimed he bought the rooster when it was a cockerel," said an officer of Balurghat police station.

The row over the rooster was brought under the notice of Panja, the police station in-charge.

"We held a meeting. The officer found a way out. He asked to allow the rooster to roam freely on Saturday and wait until evening to see where it returns – whether at Biswas's house or Chumki's," said a policeman. The logic was that roosters and hens generally return to their owners' place in the evening.

Panja wanted the bird's freedom but told his men to ensure that the bird was not stolen.

Three policemen went after the rooster throughout Saturday. "In the evening, the bird kept roaming around bushes and we had to follow it with torch lights. Early Sunday morning, it finally went to Chumki's house to roost. "The fight was thus settled in favour of Chumki," said a police officer.

Congress targets Shivraj govt over ration scheme scam, calls for probe

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

THE opposition Congress has blasted the Shivraj Singh Chouhan-led BJP government after MP Accountant General (AG) report revealed massive irregularities in the Take Home Ration (THR) scheme meant for infants, pregnant/lactating mothers and out-of-school adolescent girls (OOSAGs).

Home Minister Narottam Mishra, however, sought to downplay the matter, saying such reports contained opinions of the AG and were not final. In a tweet, state Congress chief Kamal Nath charged the state government with corruption, saying scams were a part of every scheme of the BJP government. "The women and child development department, which is involved in the scam, is headed by the CM himself," said Nath.

"The state has topped the country in malnourishment. However, corruption and scams are surfacing in the scheme meant to combat malnourishment. We demand a high-level probe into the entire matter," Nath tweeted.

Congress MP Jairam Ramesh also targeted the BJP government. "The BJP government in MP first ruined the future of youths through the Vyapam scam, now injustice is being done with poor kids and pregnant mothers. Did 'Mama' (moniker for the MP CM) form the government with Maharaj (Union minister Jyotiraditya Scindia) for such scams?" Ramesh tweeted.

Mishra, however, said such reports were subject to scrutiny by state governments. These reports are vetted at multiple levels, including the Public Accounts Committee (PAC) of the Assembly, which is headed by the Leader of Opposition (LoP) in the state," Mishra said in Bhopal.

Earlier, the state government had come out with a detailed response on the AG's audit report on the THR scheme. While confirming that the report has been sent to the government for opinion, it stated that the department had already initiated corrective action on most of the 10 points mentioned in the audit report.

Chile looks for a way forward after rejecting progressive constitution

SANTIAGO

CHILEAN leaders on Monday began trying to chart a fresh course toward updating the country's dictatorship-era constitution after voters overwhelmingly rejected a progressive proposal that many felt went too far.

The heavy loss was a blow to President Gabriel Boric, who met with congressional leaders on Monday to begin hammering out a way to create another proposal.

Although rejection had been expected in Sunday's plebiscite, the almost 24-point margin was a shocking repudiation of a document that was three years in the making and had been promoted as a democratic effort to replace the constitution imposed by Gen. Augusto Pinochet 41 years ago.

The constitution, written by a convention split equally between male and female delegates, characterised Chile as a plurinational state, would have established autonomous Indigenous territories and prioritized the environment and gender parity.

With 99.9% of the votes counted, the rejection camp led by 61.9% to 38.1% and turnout was heavy, with voting mandatory.

The president said there would now likely be "adjustments to our governing team" as he seeks to find a path forward.

Boric made clear the process to amend it would not end with Sunday's vote. He said it was necessary for leaders to "work with more determination, more dialogue, more respect" to reach a new proposal "that unites us as a country."

To that end, Boric met with the heads of both chambers of Congress Monday to start determining a path forward.

After the sit-down with Boric, Sen. Álvaro Elizalde, the head of the Senate, said that he and his counterpart in the lower house, Raúl Soto, will call for meetings with the country's political parties and social movements to start a dialogue that will launch a new constitutional process. AP

Liz Truss crosses the finishing line by 57.4%

Rishi Sunak asks Conservative Party members to unite behind the new PM as she steers UK through difficult times

LONDON

Rishi Sunak on Monday asked the Conservative Party members to unite behind the newly-appointed British PM Liz Truss, minutes after she defeated him in the leadership contest to succeed Boris Johnson.

Sunak, soon after his defeat, took to Twitter to thank everyone who voted for him.

"I've said throughout that the Conservatives are one family. It's right we now unite behind the new PM, Liz Truss, as she steers the country through difficult times," Sunak tweeted.

Indian diaspora groups in the UK on Monday reacted to the conclusion of Rishi Sunak's 'inspiring' bid to be elected Conservative Party leader and expressed optimism over the new prime minister elect, Liz Truss.

Congratulatory messages poured in from around the world for newly elected PM.

Liz Truss, Britain's new PM-elect

EU chief Ursula von der Leyen congratulated Liz Truss, but said London and Brussels must work "in full respect of our agreements".

"The EU and the UK are partners. We face many challenges together, from climate change to Russia's invasion of Ukraine," von der Leyen said, in a congratulatory tweet.

"I look forward to a constructive relationship, in full respect of our agreements," she added, in what will be seen as a reference to the Northern Ireland Protocol.

This clause, part of the agreement under which Britain left the European Union, retains the British province of Northern Ireland inside the EU customs zone and single market.

This was intended to prevent the return of a trade border between the north and Ireland, which remains an EU member, and was signed and approved by Truss's outgoing predecessor Boris Johnson.

German Chancellor Olaf Scholz on Monday congratulated Liz Truss on her victory.

"I am looking forward to our cooperation in these challenging times. The UK and Germany will continue to work closely together—as partners and friends," Scholz said.

French President Emmanuel Macron said Monday he was "ready to work together as friends and allies" with Liz Truss.

"I say welcome to Liz Truss. I express all of France's congratulations and we are ready to work together as allies and friends," Macron told reporters at a press conference after months of troubled post-Brexit bilateral relations under Boris Johnson. Agencies

Suspects on run after Canada stabbing rampage

REGINA

A manhunt continued Monday for two men suspected of stabbing to death 10 people in an Indigenous community and a nearby town in one of the deadliest mass killings in Canada's history.

The men are also suspected of injuring 15 people in the series of knife attacks that led the James Smith Cree Nation to declare a state of emergency and shook residents of the nearby village of Weldon.

"No one in this town is ever going to sleep again. They're going to be terrified to open their door," said Weldon resident Ruby Works, who was close to one of the victims.

Police, meanwhile, said a vehicle reportedly carrying the two suspects had been spotted about 335 kilometres south of the communities where the stabbings occurred. Police chief Evan Bray said they believe the suspects are in the provincial capital of Regina.

The suspects were identified as Damien Sanderson, 31 and Myles Sanderson, 30. "It is horrific what has occurred in our province," said Rhonda Blackmore, assistant commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in Saskatchewan, adding there were 13 places where either deceased or injured people were found.

Damien Sanderson (L), Myles Sanderson

Blackmore said some of the victims appear to have been targeted by the suspects, but others appear to have been attacked at random.

The elected leaders of the three communities that make up the James Smith Cree Nation, including the Chakastaypasin Band and the Peter Chapman Band, declared a local state of emergency.

Among the 10 victims killed was Lana Head, who is the former partner of Michael Brett Burns and the mother of their two daughters. PM Justin Trudeau said he was "shocked and devastated by the horrific attacks," adding that Canadians are mourning this "tragic violence." The deadliest gun rampage in Canadian history happened in 2020, when a man disguised as a police officer shot 22 people and set fires across the province of Nova Scotia. Agencies

Defamatory remarks: Pak army raps Imran

ISLAMABAD

IN a rare public rebuke, Pakistan's army on Monday slammed ex-PM Imran Khan for his "defamatory and uncalled for statement" about the appointment of the new army chief, saying the institution was 'aghast' at his remarks about the military leadership.

Addressing a public rally, he alleged that the government was afraid of fair elections and delaying the polls until the appointment of the new army chief. "(Asif Ali) Zardari and Nawaz (Sharif) want to bring their favourite as the next army chief because they have stolen public money," Khan alleged. "They are afraid that when the patriotic army chief comes, he will ask them about their loot." Strongly objecting his remarks, the army issued a statement. "Pakistan Army is aghast at the defamatory and uncalled for statement about the senior leadership of Pakistan Army by Chairman PTI ...," it said.

Meanwhile, the Islamabad HC censured Khan over his anti-army speeches. The court warned that it would not be possible to uphold Khan's right to speech under the Constitution over his remarks. PTI

'No change in tax law for overseas G-sec listing'

Some indices sought exemption from capital gains tax as condition for listing these bonds

MONIKA YADAV @New Delhi

THE government is keen on Indian bonds joining the global indices but it will not make any changes in tax laws to get bonds listed overseas, a top finance ministry official told TNIE.

The reaction comes after Morgan Stanley said it sees a good chance for JP Morgan to include Indian government bonds in its index.

Apparently, some indices had sought exemption from capital gains tax as a condition for listing the Government of India bonds. "The effort to list Indian bonds in international markets is on. We are happy with the inclusion of Indian bonds in the global indices, provided no change in taxation law is demanded," a top Finance Ministry said.

The official clarified that the timing of the listing completely depends upon overseas index operators (JP Morgan and Euroclear) agreeing to the centre's terms and conditions on taxation issues. The official said that JP Morgan has not demanded any change in tax requirement, so it is likely that it will include Indian bonds anytime soon. Morgan Stanley sees a good chance of JP Morgan announcing the inclusion of G-secs on its global index.

"We see a good chance that JPM will announce the inclusion in September, surprising the market. This would trigger $30 billion of inflows in 2023-24. We recommend long INR and 10-year G-secs tactically," said Morgan Stanley in a report.

"Our understanding is that the JPM index team has been collecting feedback from global markets in the past two months. There are two key takeaways 1) The index team now has more incentive to include India on the back of Russia's exclusion and 2) Most GBI-EM investors either support or don't object to the inclusion," it added.

Meanwhile, Morgan Stanley also stated that for India achieving Euroclear is easier than the market assumption and the authority's perception. It said that what Euroclear wants is a clarification of what capital gains tax rate to pay and how to pay it. "Hence, what is possible is that after the index inclusion announcement, both finance ministry and the RBI will work together with Euroclear to address the outstanding issue and India could still achieve Euroclear before the actual index inclusion," Morgan Stanley added.

Govt to raise ₹20K cr via green bonds

MONIKA YADAV @New Delhi

THE government will raise ₹20,000 crore through green bonds in the second half of this financial year, as part of its borrowing of ₹5.86 lakh crore.

The Centre is working on the contours of the green bond framework.

"We will issue green bonds for a small amount of ₹20,000 crore this fiscal. We are in the process of finalising the framework for these bonds," a senior finance ministry official told TNIE. He further added that the timeline for the issuance of these bonds hasn't yet been decided.

According to the sources, the green bond framework will contain the details of the projects to be financed.

"As we are not making any additional borrowing, we have to borrow within the borrowing limits as per the budget. So, only those schemes will be financed that already fall within the ambit of the budget," the source added.

"It's not necessary that the issue of these bonds will be announced, along with the borrowing for second half. There are certain formalities with which have to comply before launching these bonds," the official stated.

Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman in her budget speech had announced Centre's plan to issue green bonds in the financial year 2022-23 (FY23) as part of its overall market borrowing to mobilise resources for green infrastructure.

Another source said the government will look at the pricing of bonds too. Green bonds should not be costlier than normal bonds. Depending upon the response, the government may consider raising funds through them from foreign investors, he said.

Meanwhile, the government sources said with the issuance of green bonds, market will get diversified as at present there are investors for normal bonds only. The diversification of the market will help in getting competitive price.

GST PANEL MAY NOT TREAT ONLINE GAMING AS GAMBLING

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

THE Group of Ministers (GoM) on casinos, race courses and online gaming is open to consider different rates and valuation methods for all the three games. This necessarily means that the GoM may have agreed to the demand for not treating the online gaming industry as betting or gambling.

The shift in the stance of GoM happened after its meeting on Monday.

According to sources, the GoM has acknowledged the legal differences and nuances of the three and is ready to treat them differently, and has sought representations and legal consultation from various stakeholders on the issue.

Earlier, the GoM was of the view that all the three – casinos, online gaming and race course -- should be viewed in the same manner (as game of chance), and taxed at the highest GST rate of 28%.

The online gaming industry has been opposing this stance of the GoM, and has made several representations making the submission online gaming is a game of skills and it should not be taxed at the same rate as casinos or race courses. The gaming industry had made representations to consider taxability on online gaming at 18% which is at par with global taxability.

The GoM has been constituted by the GST Council and is headed by Meghalaya chief minister Conrad Sangma. . It has eight members including finance ministers of West Bengal, Telangana, Tamil Nadu, UP and Gujarat.

After the change in stance of the GoM post-Monday meeting, the gaming industry as well as tax experts have welcomed the change in heart of the Group of Ministers on the issue.

Roland Landers, CEO, All India Gaming Federation (AIGF), said in a statement: "GoM recognising the constitutional and legal difference and nuances of online games is very promising. As an apex industry body for online gaming, AIGF is very hopeful that the GoM will arrive at a progressive and constitutionally sound recommendation for rate and valuation for our industry."

Tata Motors sees demand for commercial vehicles

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

TATA MOTORS is expecting the commercial vehicles (CV) industry to perform well this fiscal after two years of downturn as various indicators such as fleet utilisation and freight rates, rise in infrastructure activity are showing signs of improvement.

After struggling for two years, the CV industry logged 22% volume growth in FY22 over the low base of FY21. CV sales in the first quarter of the current fiscal (Q1FY23) continued its upward journey as sales volume more than doubled to 224,512 units as against 105,800 units in the same quarter of the last fiscal. "The CV industry seems to be on an upside now. Various indicators such as fleet utilisation or freight rates or even the transporters confidence index that we track every quarter seem to be doing pretty well...The government's push for infrastructure is creating good demand for tipper trucks," said Tata Motors executive director Girish Wagh as the company launched a series of trucks on Monday. Wagh said bus segment, which was under severe pressure in FY20 and FY21, has started seeing good demand coming in from the school segment towards the end of the second quarter of the last fiscal and also a good beginning in the employee transport segment. "So overall, we see all segments, whether M&HCV, intermediate and light small commercial vehicles and even passenger (bus) segment are doing well. I am optimistic that the CV industry should do well this year," he added.

It has rolled out CNG-powered medium and heavy commercial vehicle (M&HCV) range of trucks and a new series of advanced intermediate and light commercial vehicle (I&LCV) tippers and trucks. The CNG models are powered by the proven 5.7-litre SGI engine generating peak power of 180hp and torque of 650Nm, and offer a range of up to 1,000 km.

Taking the markets by surprise, US Fed chair Jerome Powell had said last week he will have to keep raising federal fund rates to tame inflation. PTI

RBI's lending norms draw mixed reactions from fintechs

UMA KANNAN @Bengaluru

THOUGH the Reserve Bank of India's (RBI) digital lending guidelines help protect the data of borrowers and provide directions to prevent digital lending frauds, which are on the rise, fintech experts are worried about tighter guidelines. They say it might erode the confidence of the public.

Last week, the RBI issued guidelines on digital lending that included Annual Percentage Rate (APR). The central bank said APR as the all-inclusive cost of digital loans for the borrower should be disclosed upfront by regulated entities (REs), and should also be a part of the Key Fact Statement (KFS). Former MD and co-founder of fintech firm BharatPe Ashneer Grover has criticised the apex bank's lending guidelines. Taking to Twitter, he said, "If UPI is the best tech/regulatory innovation in the world, the RBI's digital lending guidelines have to be worst. Essentially the RBI is telling fintechs 'Bhai, mat karo digital lending shending!"

Rohit Arora, CEO and co-founder, Biz2Credit and Biz2X, said innovative methods of designing and delivery of credit products and their servicing via digital lending route have acquired prominence. With tighter guidelines, it may erode confidence of the public in digital lending ecosystem.The onus for managing the LSPs (lending service providers) and fintechs is on regulated entities (REs), which puts greater load on compliance, infosec and business teams, thereby adding additional workload, conservative decision making and an overall slowdown in the flow that is coming through the RE-fintech relationship funnel, explained Amit Das, CEO and co-founder of Think360.ai.

However, experts also said the guidelines include a host of measures that will make online lending more transparent and safer for borrowers.

Rachit Chawla, CEO of Finway FSC, said due to the new guidelines people will be less drawn towards taking a loan from illegal lending apps that might have equivocal terms and conditions. Since guidelines stated data should be stored in servers located within India, foreign lending apps will be barred from accessing exclusive information about borrowers or saving it on their server. Joginder Rana, vice-Chairman and MD, CASHe, said too much data transparency and knowledge of underwriting norms will breed rogue elements who will try to game the system.

Market remains resilient despite weak global cues

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

DEFYING global trends, equity benchmark indices rallied nearly 1% on Monday. Sensex rose 442.65 points or 0.75% to reclaim the 59,000 level and settled at 59,245.98, while the broader Nifty closed 126.35 higher at 17,665.80.

The rally, mostly stock specific and led by heavyweights such as Reliance Industries and ICICI Bank, came even as most Asian bourses closed in the red due to multiple negative cues.

Vinod Nair, head of Research at Geojit Financial Services, said concerns about the global economy, which is struggling with high inflation and recession, were stoked by mixed job data from the US and a worsening energy situation in Europe. Strong employment data in the US will give the Federal Reserve the confidence to raise interest rates by another 50-75 bps in the forthcoming policy meetings. In anticipation of decrease in output, oil prices increased prior to the OPEC+ summit. "Meanwhile, none of these has impacted the domestic market, which continues to hold an upbeat outlook, bolstered by strengthening local economic statistics and rising corporate demand," added Nair. Oil prices jumped nearly $3 a barrel on Monday as OPEC-plus plans to cut output targets by 100,000 bpd, while the dollar index scaled a fresh multi-decade high near 110. Both these developments are a big negative for India. "Recent market outperformance can be largely attributed to banking and financial pack, while the global markets are not showing any sign of respite" said Ajit Mishra, VP - research, Religare Broking.

IEX power trade volume grows 9% MoM

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU

THE total trade volume of Indian Energy Exchange (IEX) reported a 9% month-on-month (MoM) growth to 7,805 MU (million units).

According to the data released by IEX, this comprised 6,517 MU in the conventional power market, 437 MU in the green power market, and 851 MU in the Renewable Energy Certificate Market or REC market. However, the total volume in August 2022 was 18% lower on year-on-year (YoY) basis. The average clearing price in Day Ahead market increased 2% YoY, from ₹5.06 per unit in August 2021 to ₹5.17 in August 2022."Supply side constraints continued due to high prices of imported coal, fuel shortage and increased e-auction prices," said an IEX statement. As per the National Load Dispatch Centre data, energy consumption saw 1% YoY growth at 130.4 BU during August. "While the national peak demand at 195 GW witnessed 2.6% growth MoM basis, it was lower by 1% YoY due to good monsoon spell," said IEX.

Cyrus' entrepreneurial mindset helped achieve many milestones, says SP Group

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

A day after the tragic death of former Tata Sons chairman Cyrus Mistry, his family construction company, the Shapoorji Pallonji Group (SPG), on Monday said his entrepreneurial mindset helped them (SPG) to achieve many milestones over the past two decades, including one of India's first integrated, project-financed power plants, and the development of India's first biotechnology park.

"With his vision and eye for detail, he was instrumental in steering the Group from a pure contractor to a 'value-added' player, by developing competencies in allied areas such as EPC and 'Design & Build'. He also envisioned and oversaw the evolution of the Group into an end-to-end business group, spanning design & engineering, construction, and asset development," said the Mumbai-based Group in a statement.

Mistry, 54, died in a road accident near Mumbai on Sunday. He is survived by wife Rohiqa, sons Firoz and Zahan, mother Patsy Mistry, sisters Laila Rustom Jehangir and Aloo Noel Tata, and brother Shapoor Mistry. Mistry joined the family business in March 1991 as a Director, overseeing the Group's construction business. In recent years, he was playing key role in reducing the debt-level of the Group and was quite successful in it. Touching the personal façade of his life, his family said CPM, as he was fondly known, was a voracious reader and committed to a journey of lifelong learning across disciplines. Despite his success, he always kept a low profile, away from the limelight.

"Mistry deeply valued righteousness and honesty. He was known for his transparency and integrity in all his business dealings. He was humble, approachable to all, and always lent a helping hand to the less fortunate," his family added.

TIME FOR INDIA TO GET BALL BEARINGS RIGHT

In a crucial Asia Cup Super 4s clash against Sri Lanka, Rohit and Co have a lot to ponder over their bowling combinations

GOMESH S @Chennai

WHEN Deepak Hooda walked in place of Ravindra Jadeja on Sunday, as a standalone decision, it did not seem like a bad call. After all, that was what was expected since the all-rounder was ruled out. However, what made it complicated was the absence of Avesh Khan, whom head coach Rahul Dravid said was unwell ahead of the match.

With no other fast bowler in the squad to pick from, India were left to play just two seamers in Arshdeep Singh and Bhuvneshwar Kumar. Hardik Pandya was the third pacer and fifth mainstream bowling option. While it's not something they haven't done in the past, they might have wanted to be careful with his workload.

But against Pakistan, they could have played R Ashwin in place of Hooda, especially with three left-handers in Pakistan's top six. Instead, they went in with Ravi Bishnoi — a wrist spinner who largely takes the ball away from the left-hander — and Yuzvendra Chahal. As their captain Rohit said, it was a judgement call to pick Hooda, but what was surprising is the fact that even when Mohammad Nawaz was going after the Indian bowling, they weren't using Hooda, who can bowl off-spin.

With Nawaz and Mohammad Rizwan going after Hardik and Chahal, the pressure only built on Bhuvneshwar and Arshdeep. The former after having an incredible third over — four runs and the wicket of Nawaz — went off his line and lengths in the 19th over. With 26 runs to defend in two, he gave away 19, leaving just seven for Arshdeep. The young pacer tried his best to take it close, but India eventually lost in the penultimate ball of the match.

While there are tactics and fielding gaffes to point at as to where India lost the match against Pakistan, the tournament so far has more or less shown the likely pacers who might make the ticket to Australia. Make no mistake, without Jasprit Bumrah, this pace attack is not the one that might win World Cups. And his absence is essentially visible, especially when the pacers are under the pump.

With him walking into the XI, there is one more in Harshal Patel, who might extend India's batting a bit longer. But India can afford to play only three of the four. Which is why, it is key for India to back Arshdeep over the next couple of series to test him under pressure on a consistent basis. For there is no stimulation that comes close to delivering in an actual match. And, after all, it is something he had done throughout the 2022 Indian Premier League season for Punjab Kings.

That said, facing Sri Lanka — two southpaws in the top six — next it will be interesting to see whether India stick to Hooda or go back and play Ashwin or Axar Patel. Irrespective of whom they play, they will have to use them with the ball to ensure there isn't any additional pressure on Arshdeep and Bhuvneshwar.

LANKAN TEST FOR INDIA

After their first loss of the tournament, India would want to get their campaign back on track against Sri Lanka on Tuesday. A look...

IS KOHLI BACK?

The knock against Pakistan, in some sense, was the best one has seen Virat Kohli bat in a long time. There was intent, he was hitting boundaries at will and what more, he looked confident and in his zone. He is already the leading run-scorer of the tournament so far, but one has to wait and see if this approach will continue on a consistent basis with the kind of outcome both Kohli and the team need.

LANKAN SPIN VS INDIAN TOP-ORDER

Sri Lanka's Wanindu Hasaranga and Maheesh Theekshana have troubled more Indian batters in the Indian Premier League to count. The duo is likely to hold the key for Sri Lanka against Indian top three — KL Rahul, Rohit Sharma and Virat Kohli — that seem to be trying to build on the intent on a consistent basis.

QUOTE UNQUOTE

One thing I can tell you is when I gave up Test captaincy, I got a message from only one person who I've played with before — MS Dhoni. A lot of people have my number and a lot of people give suggestions on TV, but among people who have my number, I didn't get a message from anyone else. When there's respect and a connection with someone, when it's genuine, it looks like this. All I can say is if I want to tell someone something I'll reach out individually, if the help is needed. If you give a suggestion in front of the whole world, it holds no value for me. If it is something that will improve me then you can do it one-on-one also.

— Virat Kohli on if any former cricketers backed him through the tough times

Under pressure, anyone can make a mistake. It's a big match and the situation was tight. I remember when I first played in the Champions Trophy. Against Pakistan, I remember I hit a very bad shot off Shahid Afridi. Till 5 am next morning, I was only staring at the ceiling, unable to sleep. I thought I'll never get a game again, my career is over. So it's natural to feel like this. When the team environment is good then you learn from it and when such an opportunity comes up again, you look forward to it, hoping the ball comes to you.

— Kohli on Arshdeep Singh's dropped catch against Pakistan

Post dropped catch, Arshdeep abused on social media

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

LAST April-May, Arshdeep Singh was trending every time he had the white kookaburra in his hands. At the Indian Premier League (IPL), a grand stage where even the best in the world can wilt under pressure, the 23-year-old left-arm seamer was delivering yorkers for fun. Such was his precision in delivering them — considered the most difficult art to practice in the game — that his economy rate in the end overs was better than that of even Jasprit Bumrah.

It was this outstanding ability that made Punjab Kings to retain him ahead of the last player auctions. And the possibility of pairing up with Bumrah at the end overs, where they could be terrorising batters at the T20 World Cup, was the reason why India picked him for the Asia Cup. Yet all it took was one dropped catch – that of Asif Ali in the 17th over of Pakistan's chase against India at Dubai – for Arshdeep to face all sorts of abuses on social media.

From being called a Khalistani terrorist to be accused of single-handedly costing India the win, Arshdeep was subjected to abuse by trolls. During last year's T20 World Cup, pacer Mohammed Shami faced a similar attack on social media, which led to then captain Virat Kohli coming down heavily on the trolls. This time too there is an outpouring of support for Arshdeep with many former cricketers including Yuvraj Singh, Harbhajan Singh, Irfan Pathan, Abhinav Mukund and Aakash Chopra tweeting in support of the pacer.

Punjab's minister for sports and youth affairs Gurmeet Singh Meet Hayer, threw his weight behind Arshdeep. Hayer said that Singh is a player full of potential and much is expected of him in the near future. He also spoke with the mother of Arshdeep, Baljit Kaur who is in Dubai, over phone and assured her that the entire country stands firmly behind her son. He also said that on returning to the country, he would personally welcome the pacer.

Meanwhile former chief minister, Capt. Amarinder Singh, wrote on his Facebook page, "It's unfortunate that Arshdeep Singh is being mocked this much for only dropping one catch. Things like this happen in sports, especially under such high pressure circumstances. We should support and encourage our sports heroes. Arshdeep, don't be disappointed. You have a long and wonderful career ahead of you."

Eyes on Paris giants

Europe's premier football club competition returns with a few intriguing fixtures. A look at a few of them...

PSG VS JUVENTUS

It feels like a matter of time before PSG finally win the Champions League. They have made more eye-catching signings — none more significant than midfielder Fabian Ruiz. They have also retained Kylian Mbappe. If they can get Lionel Messi up to speed, this could be their season. Compared to PSG, Juventus are in the shadows. They have begun sedately but their aim of doing well in Europe has repeatedly suffered setbacks. Doing well in games like this will give an indication of their level.

SEVILLA VS MAN CITY

The La Liga side haven't begun well, finding themselves in 15th (one draw, three losses). At the weekend, they were humbled by Barcelona. They have signed a lot of players and it may take time for the group to gel as a group. The Premier League champions, who have long held designs on winning the Champions League, know mastering a big challenge away from home will set them up well. Considering they have Erling Haaland who has already hit 10 goals this season, there could be a tennis score by the time this match is done.

3 Messi has scored three goals in seven matches against Juventus.

23 Haaland has scored 23 CL goals in 19 appearances so far. | AFP

Kyrgios stuns Medvedev, Gauff advances

AFP @ New York

AUSTRALIA'S Nick Kyrgios sent defending champion Daniil Medvedev tumbling out of the US Open on Sunday as US teenager Coco Gauff reached the quarterfinals for the first time. The notoriously temperamental 23rd-seeded Kyrgios produced some scintillating shot-making on his way to a superb 7-6 (11), 3-6, 6-3, 6-2 win over the world number one from Russia.

Kyrgios, who was beaten by Novak Djokovic in the Wimbledon final in July, showed grit and composure to save three set points in the opening set before holding his nerve to win an epic tie-break 13/11 before a raucous Arthur Ashe Stadium crowd. Although Kyrgios dropped the second set, he roared back to dominate Medvedev in the third and fourth sets to clinch victory in 2hr 53min.

"It was an amazing match, obviously Daniil as the defending champion had a lot of pressure on his shoulders, but I've been playing amazing the last couple of months," Kyrgios said.

Medvedev meanwhile said the mercurial Kyrgios had elevated his play to the same level as great such as Rafael Nadal and Djokovic. "Nick today played kind of at the level of Novak and Rafa," said the 26-year-old after seeing 21 aces and 53 winners whizz past him. "If he plays like this until the end of the tournament, he has all the chances to win it."

Kyrgios will face Karen Khachanov in the quarterfinals on Tuesday. Khachanov equalled his best performance in a Grand Slam event by defeating Spanish 12th seed Pablo Carreno Busta 4-6, 6-3, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3. Elsewhere in the fourth round on Sunday, fifth seed Casper Ruud became the first Norwegian man to reach the US Open quarterfinals with a 6-1, 6-2, 6-7 (4), 6-2 victory over French lucky loser Corentin Moutet. Ruud, seeded fifth, will face Italy's Matteo Berrettini for a place in the semi-finals.

In the women's draw meanwhile, rising American star Gauff kept home hopes alive with a battling 7-5, 7-5 win over China's Zhang Shuai on the Arthur Ashe Stadium.

The 18-year-old 12th seed will now play France's in-form Caroline Garcia for a place in the semifinals.

After learning the art of nabbing criminals, Vikas ready to get back in the ring

ANMOL GURUNG @ Chennai

THE Tokyo Olympics and the few months that followed was a real test of mental resilience for boxer Vikas Krishan Yadav. Having 'fought with one hand' then (his other hand was injured), he had no choice but to undergo surgery to fix his injured right shoulder and a torn ligament. After a successful surgery, he had to be patient. For someone who's used to high adrenaline levels, staying at home was frustrating to say the least. Having family by his side helped. Vikas, who's a Deputy Superintendent of Police (DSP) with the Haryana government, was also learning about nabbing criminals to keep himself occupied.

"It was a really frustrating period. But I was with my family, my wife, my kids and parents. If they were not with me, I would be depressed. So it was good to have them. I was also learning about policing, how to catch criminals. I learnt that to some extent," Vikas says while recalling that critical period.

Those days are behind him now as he's ready to return to the ring. The experienced campaigner is as good as new and eager for a new cycle, a cycle he hopes will produce bigger results. He's aiming to go to the US and train with some professional boxers to improve his skills.

"My shoulder is perfect. A few days ago, I did some sparring too and it was absolutely fine. I feel completely relaxed, it was a good experience. I'm going to the US soon. I'll go maybe next month."

Having had the experience of training there, the 30-year-old, who's got a deal with Top Rank Boxing (one of the sport's well-known promotion company), feels another stint in US will help him become a better boxer and help him ahead of Asian Games and Olympic qualifiers next year. "I want to train with professional boxers so that I can improve my game so that I can be well-prepared for Asian Games and the next Olympics," says Vikas, who's targetting 80kg category after the 75kg category was scrapped from the Olympic programme.

The former World Championships medallist said that he's still following the training routine set by Ronald Simms, his former coach at JSW Sports. He said that he has applied for a US visa and he'll be based in Virginia. "The boxers out there are mentally tough. I have been more or less on top at my weight category for some time in India and it's difficult to improve after a certain point. That is one reason I prefer to go to the US so that I can spar with better boxers. If I get hit, I could learn from that experience and improve."

Vikas had sustained the shoulder injury just before the Olympics during a training camp in Italy. Given that the unfortunate injury had occurred at the eleventh hour, he was not ready to go down without a fight. "It is impossible to win with one hand in any championship. I participated hoping to give my best. You never know who is carrying what injury. But my opponent was in better shape, he was injury-free and he won."

One major thing that has helped him be back on his feet and be ready for more challenges is mental make-up. It's clear that he knows how to keep his emotions in check, something he would have learnt over the years.

"Whenever I'm demoralised or happy, I remember one quote: 'this time will change'. It has been a difficult phase for a year or so. I was not able to do much boxing but I was remembering those lines. Now, I'm back in the ring, I want to achieve great things inside the ring."

He's also thankful to Manisha Malhotra, Head of Sports Excellence & Scouting at JSW Sports, someone who has helped him during his injury crises and someone who continues to check on his progress.

The death toll from a measles outbreak in Zimbabwe has risen to almost 700 children, the country's health ministry has said. Some are calling for the enactment of legislation to make vaccination mandatory in a country where anti-modern medicine religious sects hold sway on large swathes of the population of 15 million people. The southern African country's health ministry announced at the weekend that 698 children have died from measles

OPEC+ deal to cut oil output, prop up prices

Cartel said it decided to reduce output by 100,000 barrels per day

ENERGY

VIENNA: The OPEC+ oil cartel agreed on Monday to cut production for the first time in more than a year as it seeks to lift prices that have tumbled due to recession fears.

The move could irk the United States as it has pressed the group to increase output in order to bring down energy prices that have fuelled decades-high inflation.

OPEC+, a 23-nation coalition led by Saudi Arabia and Russia, had agreed to huge cuts in output in 2020 when the Covid pandemic sent oil prices crashing, but it began to increase production modestly again last year as the market improved.

Oil prices soared to almost $140 a barrel in March after Russia invaded Ukraine.

But they have since receded below $100 per barrel amid recession fears, Covid lockdowns in major consumer China and Iran nuclear talks that could bring Iranian crude back into the market. While analysts had expected another modest increase at Monday's ministerial meeting, OPEC+ said in a statement that it decided to reduce output by 100,000 barrels per day in October, returning to the production level of August.

"An output cut won't make them any friends at a time when the world is facing a cost-of-living crisis already and the group has failed to keep up with demand this year," Craig Erlam, analyst at OANDA trading platform, warned prior to the OPEC+ announcement.

Oil prices rose by more than three per cent following the announcement, with the international benchmark, Brent, exceeding $96 per barrel while the US contract, WTI, reached almost $90.

File photo of the sunset behind an idle pump jack near Karnes City in USA. Oil prices are sagging amid fears of recessions across the globe

At its last meeting, OPEC+ agreed to a small rise of 100,000 barrels per day for September after US President Joe Biden travelled to Saudi Arabia to plead for a production bump—although it was six times lower than its previous decisions.

Energy Minister Abdulaziz bin Salman last month had appeared to open the door to the idea of cutting output, which has since received the support of several member states and the cartel's joint technical committee. He said "volatility and thin liquidity send erroneous signals to markets at times when clarity is most needed".

Caroline Bain, commodities expert at Capital Economics, said the cut was not a total surprise a "little more than symbolic" as OPEC+ has struggled to meet its quotas due to lacklustre production in some of its member countries.

"The bigger picture is that OPEC+ is producing well below its output target and this looks unlikely to change given that Angola and Nigeria, in particular, appear unable to return to pre-pandemic levels of production," Bain said.

CURBING OIL PRICES

In efforts to curb rising oil prices, the United States and its allies have released crude from their emergency reserves. And in a bid to curb Russia's war funding, the G7 group of industrialised powers agreed Friday to move "urgently" towards capping the price of Russian oil. That's if the cap works as intended. Russia could refuse to supply oil to countries and companies observing the cap, which would take barrels off the market. The price cap has not been set, and its influence on the global price remains unclear. Another geopolitical issue is clouding the outlook. Negotiations aimed at reviving a landmark nuclear deal between Tehran and world powers could lead to an easing of oil sanctions in return for curbs to the atomic activities. However, Washington said Thursday that Tehran's latest response to a European Union draft was "unfortunately... not constructive". Other factors are lurking that could influence the price of oil.

DECONSTRUCTING THE CONCEPT OF FAMINE

IPC SCALE

On Monday, the UN's humanitarian chief Martin Griffiths warned that Somalia was on the brink of famine for the second time in just over a decade. Here is an exploration of a term that evokes the very worst of human suffering

WHAT IS A FAMINE?

"Famine" is a word freighted with dread of hunger and privation, dating back to the dawn of humanity

INTEGRATED FOOD SECURITY PHASE CLASSIFICATION

SINCE 2004, global agencies are supposed to only use the term according to the Integrated Food Security Phase Classification (IPC) scale

As per IPC scale, famine exists when at least 20% of households in a specific area have extremely limited access to basic food

20 PER CENT

At least 30% of children suffer from acute malnutrition; and two people out of every 10,000 die each day "due to outright starvation or to the interaction of malnutrition and disease"

BAIDOA AND BURHAKABA

Griffiths, the head of the UN Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA), said famine was likely in two areas of south-central Somalia, Baidoa and Burhakaba, between October and December

EXPRESS ILLUSTRATION

HOW DOES FAMINE KILL?

When lack of food has led to an 18% loss of weight, the body starts undergoing physiological disturbances, according to a 1997 study of hunger strikes published in the British Medical Journal (BMJ). When people have insufficient food over several weeks, it leads to organ failure and eventually death

LONG TERM SOCIAL CONSEQUENCES

Hunger leads to stunted growth and impacts cognitive development, and can lead to poor health throughout a person's life. Even without reaching famine, parts of Africa go through regular cycles of hunger that have long-term social consequences

WHERE HAVE FAMINES OCCURRED?

Over the last century, famines hit China, the Soviet Union, Iran and Cambodia, often the result of human actions

FAMINES THAT OCCURRED IN EUROPE

Europe suffered several famines in the Middle Ages, but its most recent were during World War I and II, where parts of Germany, Poland and the Netherlands were left starving under military blockades

FAMINES PLAGUE AFRICA

In Africa, there have been several famines in recent decades, from Biafra in Nigeria in the late 1960s to the 1983-1985 Ethiopian famine, which ushered in a new form of celebrity fundraising and unprecedented media attention on the suffering

CAUSE OF FAMINES

Throughout history, famines have generally been caused by human action, usually wars which ravage crops and livestock, ruin trade, displace people and complicate the distribution of aid

VIOLENCE AND CLIMATE CHANGE: CULPRITS

"Currently in famine-risk areas (Somalia, Ethiopia, South Sudan, Yemen, northeastern Nigeria), violent conflict is the common denominator, but climate factors are playing an increasing role," Daniel Maxwell professor of food security at Tufts University in the United States

NOTABLE FAMINES

Some of the famines which have occurred

Great Famine : also known as the Irish Potato famine occurred in Ireland during the 19th century. The country witnessed immense crop failure due to blight

Bengal Famine: This famine affected the state of Bengal in 1943. The country was under the British rule at the time and millions of people died due to malnourishment

Great famine of Holodomor: It swept across Soviet Union from 1932-33. This famine occurred due to harsh policies of the state and resulted in the deaths of millions

Quake in southwest China kills 21

DISASTER

BEIJING: At least 21 people were killed when a strong earthquake struck southwestern China on Monday, state media reported, as violent tremors in a remote region damaged homes and left some areas without electricity.

The magnitude 6.6 quake hit about 43 kilometres southeast of the city of Kangding in Sichuan province at a depth of 10 kilometres, according to the US Geological Survey. Fourteen people lost their lives in Sichuan's Shimian county and seven died in nearby Luding county, while more than 30 were injured, according to state broadcaster CCTV.

Tremors shook buildings in the provincial capital of Chengdu—where millions are confined to their homes under a strict Covid lockdown—and in the nearby megacity of Chongqing, local residents told AFP.

"I felt it quite strongly. Some of my neighbours on the ground floor said they felt it very noticeably," said Chen, a resident of Chengdu.

At least one town had suffered "severe damage" from mountain landslides triggered by the quake, CCTV reported.

China accuses the US of cyberattacks

TECH

BEIJING: Beijing on Monday accused the United States of launching "tens of thousands" of cyberattacks on China and pilfering troves of sensitive data, including from a public research university.

Washington has accused Beijing of cyberattacks against US businesses and government agencies, one of the issues over which ties between the two powers have nosedived in recent years. China has consistently denied the claims and in turn lashed out against alleged US cyber espionage, but has rarely made public disclosures of specific attacks.

But a report released on Monday by its National Computer Virus Emergency Response Center (CVERC) accused the US National Security Agency (NSA) of carrying out "tens of thousands of malicious attacks on network targets in China in recent years".

It specifically accused the NSA's Office of Tailored Access Operations (TAO) of infiltrating the Northwestern Polytechnical University in the city of Xi'an. The university is funded by China's Ministry of Industry and Information Technology, and specialises in aeronautical and space research.

CVERC alleged that TAO infiltrated the university's networks and took "control of tens of thousands of network devices" including servers, routers and network switches.

Using dozens of cyber weapons and exploiting previously unknown flaws in the SunOS operating system, the unit gained access to "core technical data" including passwords and the operations of key network devices, the report said. TAO has "stolen over 140 gigabytes of high-value data" in recent years and received assistance from groups in Europe and South Asia, CVERC said in the report, which was co-authored by the private Chinese cybersecurity firm Qihoo 360.

The foreign ministry in Beijing condemned alleged hack, saying it "seriously endangers China's national security and users' personal data security".

"We ask the US to provide an explanation and urge them to stop immediately this illegal move," Mao Ning, spokeswoman for foreign ministry, said.

FACT OF THE MATTER

Dispelling myths on crypto

TECH

Cryptocurrency critics, including economists and researchers, will gather in London and online this week to get their message across to regulators about the booming but volatile sector. A number of governments have expressed concerns over cryptocurrencies, but those behind the first Crypto Policy Symposium say they hope the event will prompt much more "critical discourse" of the sector. "The goal is to dispel some myths created by the crypto industry and to make policy makers start asking the right questions." said Martin Walker, a co-organiser. But Walker, a banking IT expert, is quick to reject claims that Monday and Tuesday's event is an "anti-crypto conference".

2 of 3 N. plants kept on standby

ENERGY

Germany said Monday it would keep two nuclear plants on standby beyond the end of the year in a policy u-turn, as a cut to Russian gas supplies threatens Europe with an energy crisis. Following a new network stress test, two of the three remaining power plants would "remain available until mid-April 2023 in case needed", Economy Minister Robert Habeck said in a speech, partly delaying a nuclear exit planned under former Chancellor Angela Merkel. Like other European countries, Germany is scrambling to ensure the lights stay on and homes stay warm this winter despite the reduction in natural gas flows from Russia amid the war in Ukraine.

Pregnant women caught in Pakistan floods desperate for aid

DISASTER

FAZILPUR: With a swollen belly, aching feet and her four-year-old daughter in tow, Fahmidah Bibi keeps an eye out for a doctor who is rumoured to be due a visit at the campsite she now calls home, after being forced to flee her village because of flooding.

The camp, in the grounds of a small railway station on the outskirts of Fazilpur in Pakistan's Punjab province, is the only high ground in a landscape of water, and accommodates around 500 people.

They include Fahmidah, 40, who arrived with her five children just over a week ago, along with her husband's relatives.

"I need a doctor or a midwife. What if something happens to my child?" Fahmidah—nine months pregnant and due any day—told AFP at the weekend.

More than 33 million people in Pakistan have been affected by the flooding, brought on by record monsoon rains that have also caused at least 1,300 deaths, according to government data.

The United Nations Population Fund said on Saturday at least 128,000 pregnant women in flood-hit areas urgently need care—with 42,000 expected to give birth in the next three months.

Fahmidah's last visit to a doctor was a month ago, and according to her report—which she keeps close along with a prescription for medicine she cannot afford—her baby is in breech position.

She sleeps in the open, sharing a traditional wooden charpoy bed with her five children, aged four to 12.

The sprawling makeshift station campsite is home to at least five other pregnant women.

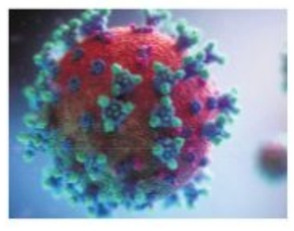
They all complain of a lack of women doctors and midwives to help them.

Most of the women have resisted being examined by volunteer male doctors who have visited with aid convoys.

Desperate for attention, Fahmidah tried striking out across flooded fields to reach the city for help, but slipped and fell multiple times and eventually gave up.

First inhalable Covid vax approved

HEALTH



Chinese drug regulators have approved the world's first inhalable Covid-19 vaccine, made by Tianjin-based manufacturer CanSino Biologics, boosting the company's share price by seven per cent on Monday. The National Medical Products Administration gave the go-ahead for the vaccine for emergency use as a booster, the company said in a statement to the Hong Kong Stock Exchange on Sunday. Following the announcement, company shares surged 14% on Monday morning before closing 7.1% higher than their opening value. The needle-free vaccine—which can be stored and administered more easily than intramuscular jabs—will be given through a nebuliser, the company said. "The approval will have a positive impact on the company's performance if the vaccine is subsequently purchased and used by relevant government agencies," the statement added.

'FOR ACTING, I REALISED MY APPROACH HAD TO BE DIFFERENT'

Actor Gitikka Ganju Dhar, seen in Aamir Khan-starrer Laal Singh Chaddha and Sushmita Sen-starrer Aarya 2, speaks about her part in the former, her interaction with Bollywood stars and life as an actor

MONIKA MONALISA

From being a fan of Aamir Khan in Qayamat Se Qayamat Tak to debuting in Laal Singh Chaddha as the lead, Gitikka Ganju Dhar has come a long way. It's no surprise that this recent release – a remake of Tom Hanks-steered American film Forrest Gump – is her most favourite.

Dhar plays the character of Manjit, a member of the title character Laal's family. "In the film, my character transitions from the age of 30 to 70. It has been the perfect debut with such a beautiful film, and an incredible and celebrated production house," she says.

Having shared the screen with two big names of the industry, Aamir Khan and Kareena Kapoor Khan, Dhar says both the actors have two extremely different ways of approaching a role, despite both give a spectacular performance on screen. "Aamir's process is very focused and determined to give as much as possible. He likes to dive deep into the process, not just his, but also his co-actors. For example, for my older character, I had to use prosthetics and Aamir was there during my look check," says Dhar, adding that post pack-up, he was a very chilled-out person and wouldn't make anyone feel that a big star had just walked in. "Kareena has a spontaneous way of approaching her roles. She is a completely natural actor and the ease with which she slips into characters is phenomenal," she adds.

Having met Aamir for the first time during an event when one of his films was released, Dhar believes he has come a long way. Being an anchor for so many years, facing the camera or crowd is not a difficult task for her. However, acting in films is a totally different ball game for sure.

"When it comes to stage, it's different. But for acting, I realised my approach had to be different, it had to be extremely natural. I enjoyed emoting for the camera. It was a pleasant surprise for me as well that I could do what was required. It pumped a lot of confidence into me as an actor," says Dhar, who was also part of Sushmita Sen-starrer Aarya 2.

Currently busy with onstage gigs and anchoring projects, Dhar will be back on the big screen next year. "There is something that is in the pipeline but I cannot reveal much. But I would love to act in an OTT series too," she sighs.

Wedding bells

A couple of weeks ago actor Suniel Shetty had confirmed the wedding of his daughter Athiya Shetty and cricketer KL Rahul. Well, there seems to be an update. The tentative date of the wedding is out. We hear that the couple is probably tying the knot by December-end or in January '23. The wedding is likely to take place at Shetty's Khandala bungalow. The Bengaluru boy is currently playing the Asia Cup and has a potentially busy schedule with the upcoming World Cup. Remember you're reading it here first.

CLASSICAL TOUCH

With the upcoming French choral music concert by the Bangalore School of Music, conductor Jonas Olsson discusses classical music and its lasting impressions

IN STORE

Gabriel Fauré is known to be one of the last French composers from the Romantic period, taking forward impressionism in music. The choir will perform pieces by Fauré. The Requiem, Cantique de Jean Racine will be sung by the men and Messe Basse, sung by the ladies, accompanied by the organ. The choirs will be joined by pianist Rebecca Thomas Colaco, head of the piano department at the Bangalore School of Music, and soloists Anisha Chandy and Som Mendegar.

NEHA REBECCA CHACKO

ITALIAN composer Peter Tchaikovsky said there would be reason to go mad were it not for music and the musically inclined would furiously agree. Where busy schedules and work were pre-existing hindrances to organising a choir practice, the pandemic and the consequent lockdown handicapped several such efforts. However, this did not stop choirs from singing, practising and evolving. The Bangalore Men and Capella, led by Jonas Olsson, were no different and their upcoming concert on September 11 will be a testament to it.

"We continued to sing throughout the pandemic," says Olsson, conductor of The Bangalore Men and Capella. He further commented on having had Zoom rehearsals every week for an hour. "We had virtual concerts, recorded performances and there was never a break and I'm happy about that because it kept us all together, motivated and positive during the pandemic." Despite it being impossible to sing together and the difficulties of virtual practices, he states it was important that choir practices were held. "You could see everyone on video, hear them and that made a lot of difference," says Olsson. With the restrictions relaxed, the Bangalore Men and Capella had their first live choir practice last November, followed by a concert in the Bangalore International Centre.

Beginning with the Gothenburg Cathedral Boys' Choir at age 10, Olsson has been a member of choirs ever since. Having moved to Bengaluru in 2006 and now the head of the Volvo Group IT, he carried his passion through solo concerts and performances before he joined as a teacher with the Bangalore School of Music. He launched The Bangalore Men in 2016 and Capella Bangalore in 2019. Returning to the stage in 2021, they performed the Bangalore Rhapsody and choral covers of music by The Beatles, Queen, Lloyd-Webber and Simon and Garfunkel among others.

With the classics making a comeback in music today, as seen in Memories by Maroon 5 which has similarities with Pachelbel's Canon in D Major, Because by The Beatles being influenced by Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata and Little Mix's Little Me using Gabriel Fauré's chord progression in Pavane, Olsson comments how this shows the "timelessness, sturdiness and longevity of the classics, forming a foundation for modern music." "The music of today is easily learnt but it is easily forgotten. So I am really thinking about what the heritage of today's music will be because they don't leave a lasting impression," he says.

The Bangalore Men and Capella will perform on September 11, at 6 pm at St Mark's Cathedral, MG Road.

REVA University launches Abhivyakti certificate program for teachers

REVA University, under the School of Performing Arts and Indic Studies, has created a week-long certificate program, Abhivyakti, with the objective of enhancing non-verbal communication in teachers in the post-pandemic era. This program is an initiative to encourage teachers and enable them to reinvest in the power of effective, communicative pedagogy for promoting communication and interaction in early school learning.

The official launch of this Certificate program was presided over by Dr. P. Shyama Raju, Chancellor, REVA University on September 5, 2022, which was the 60th year of celebration of Teachers' Day in the nation by the School of Performing Arts and Indic Studies of REVA University. The program will be made available for a week and on priority to all CBSE/ICSE/State Board government and private schools as part of the Outreach program and Teacher Empowerment Strategy of REVA University.

Speaking on this occasion while releasing the posters and the dossier that carried the details of the program apart from thanking the teacher community for all its efforts, Dr. P. Shyama Raju said, "Somewhere higher education has to start this dialogue of education and arts together with the youngsters and so REVA University has taken a lead in this through Abhivyakti. The pandemic has brought a distance between the teacher and the learner and in this pandemic, K12 has been affected the most. Small children like to and enjoy going to school and interacting with teachers and friends. However, though technology connects us so well, teaching using technology for small children has not been very effective. Human interaction is also very important for school children. If we do not bring the human element and revive human element and sensitivity, then children will lose touch with human behavior and that is exactly the objective of Abhivyakti, the enhancer of teacher-learner communication."

The Vice Chancellor, Dr. M. Dhanamjaya added, "We have launched Abhivyakti on the 60th year of celebration of Teachers' Day in the country and are sure that this move will benefit the teachers at large and also bridge and strengthen further the relationship and synergies between K12 and Higher Education."

- Now, slowly distance both the feet away from the hips slightly.
- Inhale, take a deep breath. Bring your right arm and place it above your left foot and the left arm on the right foot.

SHOULD YOU UNVEIL THE MASK?

SANNA Marin sure rocks! As she let down her hair and kicked up her heels, and boogeyed away in clothes of her choice, in the privacy of her own home, she rocked quite a few things – the sensibilities of gasping conservatives, the sentiments of disapproving traditionalists, the confidence of your average Joe. Marin may have put up a spirited defence of her me-time and privacy, but they finally won, and reduced her to tears. The young, distressed Finnish PM pleaded that she was but human, and longs for a break too. But they were unforgiving. How could she insult the high office of Prime Minister?!

The song and dance about Marin's dance was not so much about her jig (would they react to a ballroom dance?) but that she was dressed in that (ahem) inappropriate outfit, and was clearly enjoying herself. She had broken out of the prime ministerial mould and this disturbed their sense of security. Doing those jhatkas and matkas, too! Now, where have we heard that before...

Women in India are not surprised. For eons now, this queer sense of 'outrage' that patriarchal males carry with them, has been defining and redefining boundaries – what women wear, what they say, how they behave. Even women in public life, no matter how many glass ceilings they have shattered. Contrast this with our men politicians, many of whom have rocking private lives, not to mention some wild oats. If anything, power gives them the alpha edge, an armour that no law manages to pierce.

As does our silence. As a nation, we don't generally talk about politicians' private transgressions, let alone raise a stink or even our collective eyebrows. A country which prides itself on 'sanskaar' and 'moral upbringing' is most accommodative of politicians' affairs, sexcapades, private bashes, searingly expensive couture, expansive mansions, security protocol, massive cars, private jets, in effect, blatant wastage of our hard-earned money. We have grown worshipful, we prefer to bow our heads to this pompous new breed of royalty. We are a young nation with old ideas.

It's time for change. What we need are youthful, educated politicians who can don regular T-shirts and fly economy (as Marin does), who are not afraid to cycle to work, visit a mall or take the Metro. Who can dance with abandon and also do an honest job, and take home an honest salary. It may be a long time coming, but we need our version of a Marin, or Jacinda Ardern. What's your choice?

PERKY PERFORMER

NEXT-GEN ENGINE

The all-new Alto K10 is built on Suzuki's signature HEARTECT platform. It claims to have enhanced crash safety, strength and NVH performance. NVH levels — the noise, vibration and harshness — are very well controlled in the new car. The engine noise comes to the cabin only when we rev hard. The new car is powered by the next-gen K-series 1-litre dualjet, dual VVT engine. It delivers 49kW (67 HP) peak power. The engine powers an exciting and fun drive experience. According to Maruti Suzuki, it will provide excellent fuel efficiency of 24.90 km/l in automatic variants and 24.39 km/l in manual gear. For me, both variants gave mileage of around 22 km/l during the test drive.

LEKSHMI C PILLAI

THE name Maruti Suzuki Alto still resonates well with the mobility dreams of millions of Indians. It has been a household name for the past 22 years. Over the years, this undisputable leader and the best-selling car for 16 consecutive years became part of 43.2 lakh Indian families.

That is why Alto K10 has made a comeback now, after a hiatus of two and half years. Though Alto 800 continues to sell well, its 1,000 cc sibling, Alto K10, has big significance in Maruti Suzuki's business strategy.

The car was discontinued when the BS6 emission norms came into effect. Though the company introduced S-Presso, a boxy small car with a BS6 1-litre engine, the void persisted.

Now an entirely new Alto K10, the third generation Alto model in India, is introduced to further strengthen Maruti's ever-growing relationship with customers. The 800 cc Maruti Alto will continue to be on sale alongside this new model. Will the totally new Alto K10 continue the legacy? Let's have a check.

TRULY IMPRESSIVE DRIVE EXPERIENCE

As a part of Maruti's national media drive, I got the opportunity to drive this popular car — both the AGS and manual variants.

I am much impressed with the peppy performance of both. The car is very stable at higher speeds and performs well on city roads and highways. One can easily handle the compact vehicle on narrow roads, even during hectic traffic.

In the excitement, I drove the automatic vehicle at three-digit speeds (up to 107 kmph) to experience the power, stability and control of this small hatchback. The vehicle shows excellent ride quality and brake control at higher speeds.

Colours
It is available in six colours. Three of them are completely new — Sizzling Red, Speedy Blue and Earth Gold.

Lively interiors
The interior of the car adds to comfortable driving. The cabin design offers enough knee space in the front row. It also has enough utility spaces. The second row can easily occupy three passengers. However, the headroom might be tight for taller people.

I felt no lag or jerk in AGS. We can easily overtake others when necessary. Good suspension and easy-to-handle steering give one more confidence while driving. Alto K10 gives a seamless, comfortable ride. However, the lack of hill-hold assist is a drawback in AGS transmission.

Comfortable and convenient

The new model is packed with many features for comfort and convenience. The SmartPlay studio infotainment system with a 7-inch touchscreen features smartphone connectivity, Apple CarPlay and Android Auto. It also has steering-mounted audio and voice controls, four speakers, a digital speedometer display, front power window switches on the instrument panel and remote keyless entry.

All new design

The new model is nothing like the old one. It has gone through a thorough transformation. Even at first glance, the car appears new and stylish.

For one, it is larger and more rounded. Certain profiles even appear similar to Celerio. A black hexagon-shaped grille dominates the front dashboard. The honeycomb air intake element adds to the neat look.

The headlamps with a swept-back pattern look attractive on the model. The 13-inch steel wheel and the character lines on the body panels compliment the side profile. The rear lamps are more rounded. It comes with a bigger boot space and offers more convenience. The boot space is increased to 214 litres from 177 litres. The width of the car remains unchanged but all other dimensions are now grown. It's more cute and peppy, attractive to the youth but conservative enough for long-time fans.

The intriguing trailer of Rishab Shetty's Kantara grabs attention

CE FEATURES

THE trailer of Rishab Shetty's much-awaited film, Kantara, is out. The project has Rishab donning multiple hats as its writer, director and lead actor. The trailer explores the tale of a man-nature conflict, and is set in a coastal rural backdrop. Cinematographer Aravind Kashyap captures the rustic locales in all its grandeur and along with the riveting background score by Ajaneesh Loknath, the trailer also shows glimpses of the myths and superstitions surrounding the village.

The Kantara trailer begins with a King giving a piece of land to the forest tribes. We see what happens when police officers enter the forest and affect the lives of the villagers. Rishab is seen as the ray of hope for the villagers, and he leads the fight for their rightful land. The mystery surrounding the forest also unravels the customs, traditions, and the culture of Kambala and Bhootha Kola.

Sharing more about Kantara, which is set in his hometown Keradi, Kundapura, Rishab says, "The content of the films directed by me (Ricky, Kirik Party or Sa.Hi. Pra. Shaale) are all based on my personal experiences. What I have observed around this place, and in my life have been explored. I have at least 100 stories that can be brought out from the place, Keradi, and Kantara is one of them. This is a tale told through generations, and the belief system in this place is what pushed me to take up this subject," he adds.

A still from Kantara

Apart from Rishab, Kantara features Kishore, Sapthami Gowda, Pramod Shetty, Kishore, and Achyuth Kumar.

Produced by Vijay Kiragandur under the banner of Hombale Films, the film is slated for September 30 release around the Dasara festivities.
